Only 11,628 See Fight Dubbed As Worst In Years; Des Moines Boxer On Verge Of Hysteria Prior To Opening Round

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, March 30—A noisier knockout in the seemingly endless string credited to Joe Louis was duly recorded for pugilistic posterity today.

But the story of this one must be the story of a man who died a thousand deaths while waiting for nothing more painful than acute unconsciousness and chronic oblivion, the malady visited on Johnny Paychek last night in one of the poorest world heavyweight championship fights in the history of the ring. Branded a fiasco in advance, the bout attracted only 11,628 spectators and a gross gate of $62,481, but at that received more support than it deserved, considering that Paychek seemed on the verge of hysteria until finally he mercifully was laid away in 44 seconds of the second round.

FOE OF BRICKER SCORES SCHORR FOR OVERSIGHT

COLUMBUS, March 30—Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr came in for a verbal scolding today from Addison Q. Thacher, of Toledo, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Thacher took Schorr to task for failing to invite him to a rally next Wednesday at which Ohio Republicans will launch their primary election campaign. The Toledoan is opposing Gov. John W. Bricker, seeking reelection.

Thacher charged Schorr had "neither a moral nor a legal right" to "interfere in a party primary."

CHARLES SOBERS ABLE TO LEAVE BERGER HOSPITAL

Charles Sobers, injured early in February in the Kuhns residence explosion, has recovered sufficiently to be released next Monday from Berger Hospital, his physician said Saturday. Mr. Sobers, a salesman for Guy Pettit, was severely burned but has made an excellent recovery.

Mrs. Sobers, also burned seriously, is improving satisfactorily. Mrs. Mary Kuhns and her daughter, Veronica, were killed in the explosion believed caused by gas from a bathroom heater that had been blown out.

German Press Hurls Charge That President Pledged Help In Case Of War

Potocki Declares Action In Berlin Merely Propaganda, Discounts Reports

WASHINGTON, March 30—A battle of words, more intense in its sphere than the battle of steel now being fought in Europe, raged today between the United States and Germany.

While the German press accused the Roosevelt administration of war mongering, Washington officials branded as fakes the alleged reports to the Polish foreign office of conversations between Polish and American diplomats, made public by the German foreign office yesterday.

These reports purported to show that William C. Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to Paris; Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to London and others incited Poland to resist Germany and promised American war aid if Great Britain and France needed it. They were emphatically denied last night by President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, Bullitt and Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States, who allegedly sent some of the quoted reports to Warsaw.

Bullitt in Center

Bullitt, central figure in the charges hurled back and forth between Washington and Berlin, late last night, after newspapermen had sought him vainly for some hours, issued this statement:

"The President has already indicated that propaganda of this nature should be taken with several grains of salt. This particular piece of propaganda should be taken with even more salt. I have never made to anyone the statements attributed to me."

RUINS HUNTED FOR VICTIMS OF LOUISIANA GALE

NAPOLEONVILLE, La., March 30—Hundreds of workers sifted the rain-sodden ruins of the wrecked village of Pierre Part for bodies today as authorities placed five the known victims of yesterday's tornado.

Two missing children whose house boat homes were sunk were believed to have drowned in Pierre Part Bay.

Sheriff Lezin Himel supervising work crews, said he feared the death toll will run higher when debris is cleared from the townsite and the choked bayous.

"I believe many are still missing, but unreported," Sheriff Himel said.

The known dead were: Mrs. Theresa Breaux, 60, Pierre Part.

Agnier Cavaliere, 12, Pierre Part.

Alma Templet, 1, Pierre Part.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Butler, 5, Bogalusa Negro.

Mike Aaron, Tangipahoa Parish Negro.

Only one structure at Pierre Part, the new schoolhouse where 300 children huddled, escaped the twisting wind that leveled the town.

SIX ORDERED TO DAYTON

Three boys and three girls from Dayton were arrested by police at 5:15 a. m. Saturday on charges of disturbing the peace, but were released by Mayor William Cady later Saturday under orders to return to Dayton immediately. The boys were held at the city jail and the girls at the county jail pending the hearing by Mayor Cady.

Maniac Victim?

CENTERING their investigation near the campus of Penn State College, State College, Pa., on the theory the slayer of Rachel Taylor, 17-year-old co-ed, knew the girl, police continued their efforts to seek a clue to the brutal slaying.

Heating Contractor Held In State College After Co-ed's Murder

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 30—Worn but unbroken after a night of grilling by police, the state's chief suspect in the slaying of Rachel H. Taylor, 17-year-old Pennsylvania State College freshman, was transferred again for further questioning today.

Nagle P. Young, 35-year-old State College heating contractor held for questioning following his arrest in Philadelphia, was moved from the Centre County prison to the Pennsylvania motor police barracks at Rockview.

Despite the rigid police secrecy, reporters managed to enter the jail as Young was taken out to a waiting car. One newspaperman asked if he had any statement.

Young, tieless and haggard, flung his overcoat over his head and passed through the rain to the police car. He mumbled something but made no intelligible reply.

Jail officials said that Young, a quiet, well-regarded bachelor, had refused breakfast. He was smoking a cigarette when hustled out by the police.

Regardless of how long the troopers plan to hold Young without filing formal charges, Private James Griffith made it clear that in the interim he would be held incommunicado.

"We're not going to let him get a lawyer until we're ready," said Griffith, when asked if the suspect had requested counsel or would be permitted an attorney.

STATE COURT TOURNEY MAY BE TRANSFERRED

COLUMBUS, March 30—Awarding of the American Bowling Congress to Columbus for 1942 made it virtually certain today that the annual state high school basketball tournament would be transferred that year to either Dayton or Cleveland.

Earlier in the week, High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend said it would be impossible to stage the cage classic in Columbus if the ABC was here at the same time. The bowling congress will be held in the Coliseum, the site of the tournament each year.

Townsend said he had been in touch with officials of the Cleveland arena as well as backers of a new sports arena in Dayton.

Earl Griffith, State Secretary, Dies At 52 Following Heart Attack

Friends Shocked By News Of Passing Of Widely Known Republican; Operated Newspaper In Mount Gilead, O.

COLUMBUS, March 30—Stricken with a heart attack several days ago, Secretary of State Earl Griffith died in White Cross Hospital today.

His death was unexpected and a distinct shock as bulletins from the bedside for the last two days indicated the secretary was progressing satisfactorily in his fight for life.

Griffith, 52, was a native of Centerburg, O., but at the time of his death was a resident of Mt. Gilead where he was postmaster from 1928-34.

Under Ohio statutes, Griffith's successor, to serve out his unexpired term, will be appointed by Gov. John W. Bricker.

The governor was out of the city today and could not be reached for immediate comment as to when he might appoint a successor. It was assumed, however, by attaches in the governor's office, that Bricker would attend funeral services in Mt. Gilead at 2:30 p. m. Monday.

Griffith was elected to office in the Republican landslide of 1936. Previous to that time, he had never held an elective office, although he had been prominent in Morrow County politics.

He was a candidate for renomination at the May primaries and was opposed on the Republican ticket only by Edward J. Hummel, of Cincinnati. There are six men seeking the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

Quiet but affable, Griffith was well liked in the state house. He went about his official duties with a firm resolve to administer his office impartially. During his term in office, Ohio election troubles were kept at a minimum.

His biggest job since he took over the office was to fire every member of the Pike County election board after an intense investigation into alleged irregularities in that county.

Griffith attended Ohio Wesleyan University in 1906, 1907 and 1908. At the time of his death he was publisher of the Morrow County Sentinel.

In his home community he was a member of the Episcopal Church, the Elks, the Kiwanis Club, and numerous Masonic groups. He was also a member of Delta Tau Delta, a college fraternity.

He is survived by Mrs. Griffith and three children, Mary Jane, 20, Ruth, 18, and Earl Terry, 16.

EXAMINER FINDS RELIEF ACCOUNT IN COUNTY OKEH

The slim hopes of some members of Circleville council that there might be a relief fund balance in the county auditor's office in favor of the city were blasted Friday afternoon when O. P. Van Schoik, chief examiner in the office of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, checked records of all incoming funds earmarked for relief and found that all money had been properly used.

Van Schoik considered beer, malt and admissions and public utility tax accounts which are earmarked for relief and declared that prior to July 1, 1939 these receipts had all gone into a county relief fund with no breakdown being made of city and county share because no division was necessary according to law. Since that date all money has continued to go into a single fund, since a contract was approved at that time.

LONDON, March 30—Two German Messerschmitt planes were shot down in flames and a Dornier 17—the so-called German "flying pencil"—was disabled in two air fights with British squadrons near the Western Front, the air ministry claimed today.

A communiqué said: "Yesterday fighter patrols of the Royal Air Force engaged a strong formation of enemy aircraft which crossed the lines near Metz."

"As a result of the action the enemy was driven back into its own territory."

"One Messerschmitt 109 and one Messerschmitt 110 were shot down in flames."

COUNCILMEN CONFER WITH OFFICIALS ABOUT SAFETY

The safety committee of the City Council met with Karl Herrmann, safety director, and Fire Chief Talmer Wise in the Council Chamber at the City Building Friday night to discuss fire and traffic regulations.

Chief Wise outlined the specifications of the new fire truck that the city has purchased from the Seagrave Corporation of Columbus which will be delivered sometime during the first two weeks of April.

The group contemplated moving the traffic light at Mound and Scioto Streets to Main and Washington Streets.

Suggestions of the councilmen will be heard at the City Council meeting next Wednesday night.

Members of the safety committee are Julius Helwag, chairman, Donald Mason and Clarence Helvering.

DRINKING PARTY ON U. S. VESSEL FATAL TO GIRL

DETROIT, March 30—An 18-year-old girl, dead of unknown causes, was brought into a doctor's office early today by three youths and a girl who said they had been at an all-night drinking party aboard the U. S. naval training ship Dubuque.

The girl, identified as Charlotte Cranston, of Detroit, was brought to the office of Dr. Coletta Swaney. Her neck bore superficial scratches but there were no other signs of injury, police said.

Detective Lieutenant Walter Swords said the party told him: "It was an all-night drinking party and sometime during the night Miss Cranston disappeared. We found her dying on deck in the morning."

One of the men in the party was John Klanauskas, a sailor, who according to police is keeper of the ship, tied up behind the naval armory near the Belle Isle Bridge.

Souritz Starts Tour To Moscow; Ship Transfer Action Noted

PARIS, March 30—President Albert Lebrun today presided over an extraordinary meeting of the French war cabinet committee as increasing reports hinted the Allies are about to take a decisive step in the war to crush Germany.

The committee session, held in the Elysee Palace, was considered most significant since it follows by only 48 hours a meeting of the Allied supreme war council in London.

Before the cabinet group met, War Minister Edouard Daladier conferred at length with the key commanders of the French war machine—General Gustav Gamelin, allied commander-in-chief; General Joseph Vuillemin, French air force chief, and Admiral Francois Darlan, naval commander.

The important round of talks took place while Paris was agog over the sudden, secret departure last night of Soviet Ambassador Jacob Souritz. The envoy's leave-taking even surprised the French foreign office.

Souritz was recalled from his post at the request of the French government, which branded him "persona non grata" because he composed a telegram to Josef Stalin calling the Allies "war instigators."

Ships Given To French

He left the French capital last night on the heels of a British announcement that France had been given custody of two Russian freighters in Far Eastern waters allegedly laden with contraband cargoes.

The British move was welcomed by the French press as evidence of stronger Allied action against a nation which the semi-official newspaper Le Temps called "a friend of Hitler and an enemy of France."

(Britain was far more cautious in disclosing its action regarding the two Soviet freighters, the Vladimir Mayakovsky and the Selenga. Explaining the transfer, the British said the French navy "had more bases in the Pacific." When the Russian ships reach one of these, the examination for contraband will be continued.)

The Soviet ships, expected to be taken from Hong Kong to Hanoi, or another French Indo-Chinese port, are carrying metals such as antimony, tungsten and manganese, all vital in arms and munitions manufacturing.

More Vigorous Action

The French press continued pressing for more vigorous action against Soviet Russia. Premier Reynaud, in a scheduled broadcast tonight, possibly may dwell on Franco-Russian relations.

GIRL RECOVERS AFTER LONG STAY IN CAR OF TRAIN

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 30—A 15-year-old Chicago schoolgirl was recovering in a hospital today from the effects of about 20 hours' imprisonment in a box car.

The girl, Betty Jane Bass, was rescued from the car at Roundout, Ill., by a brakeman who heard her cries. She was weak and appeared to be dazed and could not immediately account for her presence in the car. It was presumed she had been locked in accidentally while playing in the car when it was in a Chicago railroad yard Thursday afternoon.

MORE PICKAWAY COUNTY BOYS TO RECEIVE BENEFIT OF BOY SCOUT WORK

Leadership Training Directed By V. Cress

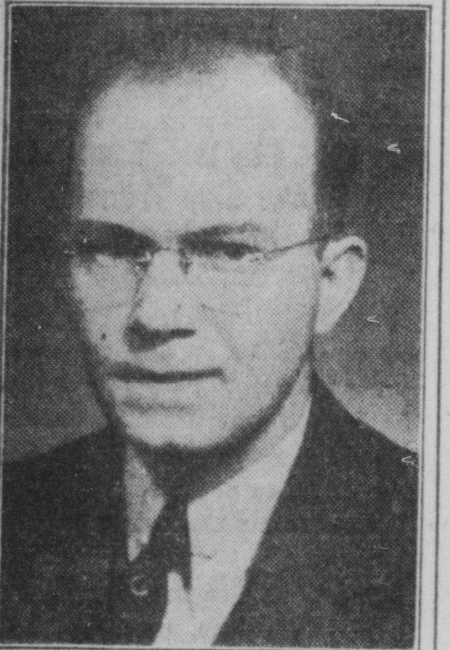

When Dr. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, was asked what the three greatest needs in the Scouting program were he replied, "training, more training and still more training."

According to word received from Virgil Cress, chairman of the Leadership Training committee in the new Pickaway District Scouting program these needs are to be met at once.

Two training courses are to be offered during the month of April to give all Scoutmasters, troop committeemen, Scouts over 18 years of age, district officials and other men interested in youth the opportunity to learn more about the most effective tool known for working with boys, Scouting.

Memorial Hall will be the scene of nine evening meetings on the 1, 3, 5, 10, 11, 17, 18, 24 and 25th of April at 7:30 p. m.

District commissioner Dr. David Goldschmidt will be in charge of the courses according to Cress assisted by Field Scout Executive

VIRGIL CRESS

Bob Scanland and Scouters from all parts of the Central Ohio Area Council.

Robert H. Helstand better known as "Chief" to Scouters of the County will speak on "The Boy" at the opening session Monday evening April 1st. His wide experience as an executive in the Scouting movement has equipped him with considerable knowledge of his subject.

Cress is convinced that the Scouting program in the county can be expanded to reach more boys in Pickaway county. Men of the county will avail themselves of the opportunity to learn more about the "Play way" of teaching Scouting.

Many institutions of the county are not now sponsoring Scout troops and leaders of such groups are urged to send representatives to the meetings so they can be "Trained before Trying".

These courses are part of the five year Scouters training program leading to the award of the Scoutmasters Key, a coveted award which is worn by many veteran Scouters of America.

J. I. Smith Chairman Of Pickaway District

Three years as District Chairman have served to give James I. Smith Jr. a complete picture of the Scouting movement in Pickaway County. He is anxious to see more boys get the chance to become Scouts.

Mr. Smith has always supported Scouting activities in the counties and is a member of the Council Executive Board. Recently because of the nature of his work which takes him out of the state frequently Smith decided to suggest the election of two vice chairmen of the district. This was taken care of at the recent Pickaway

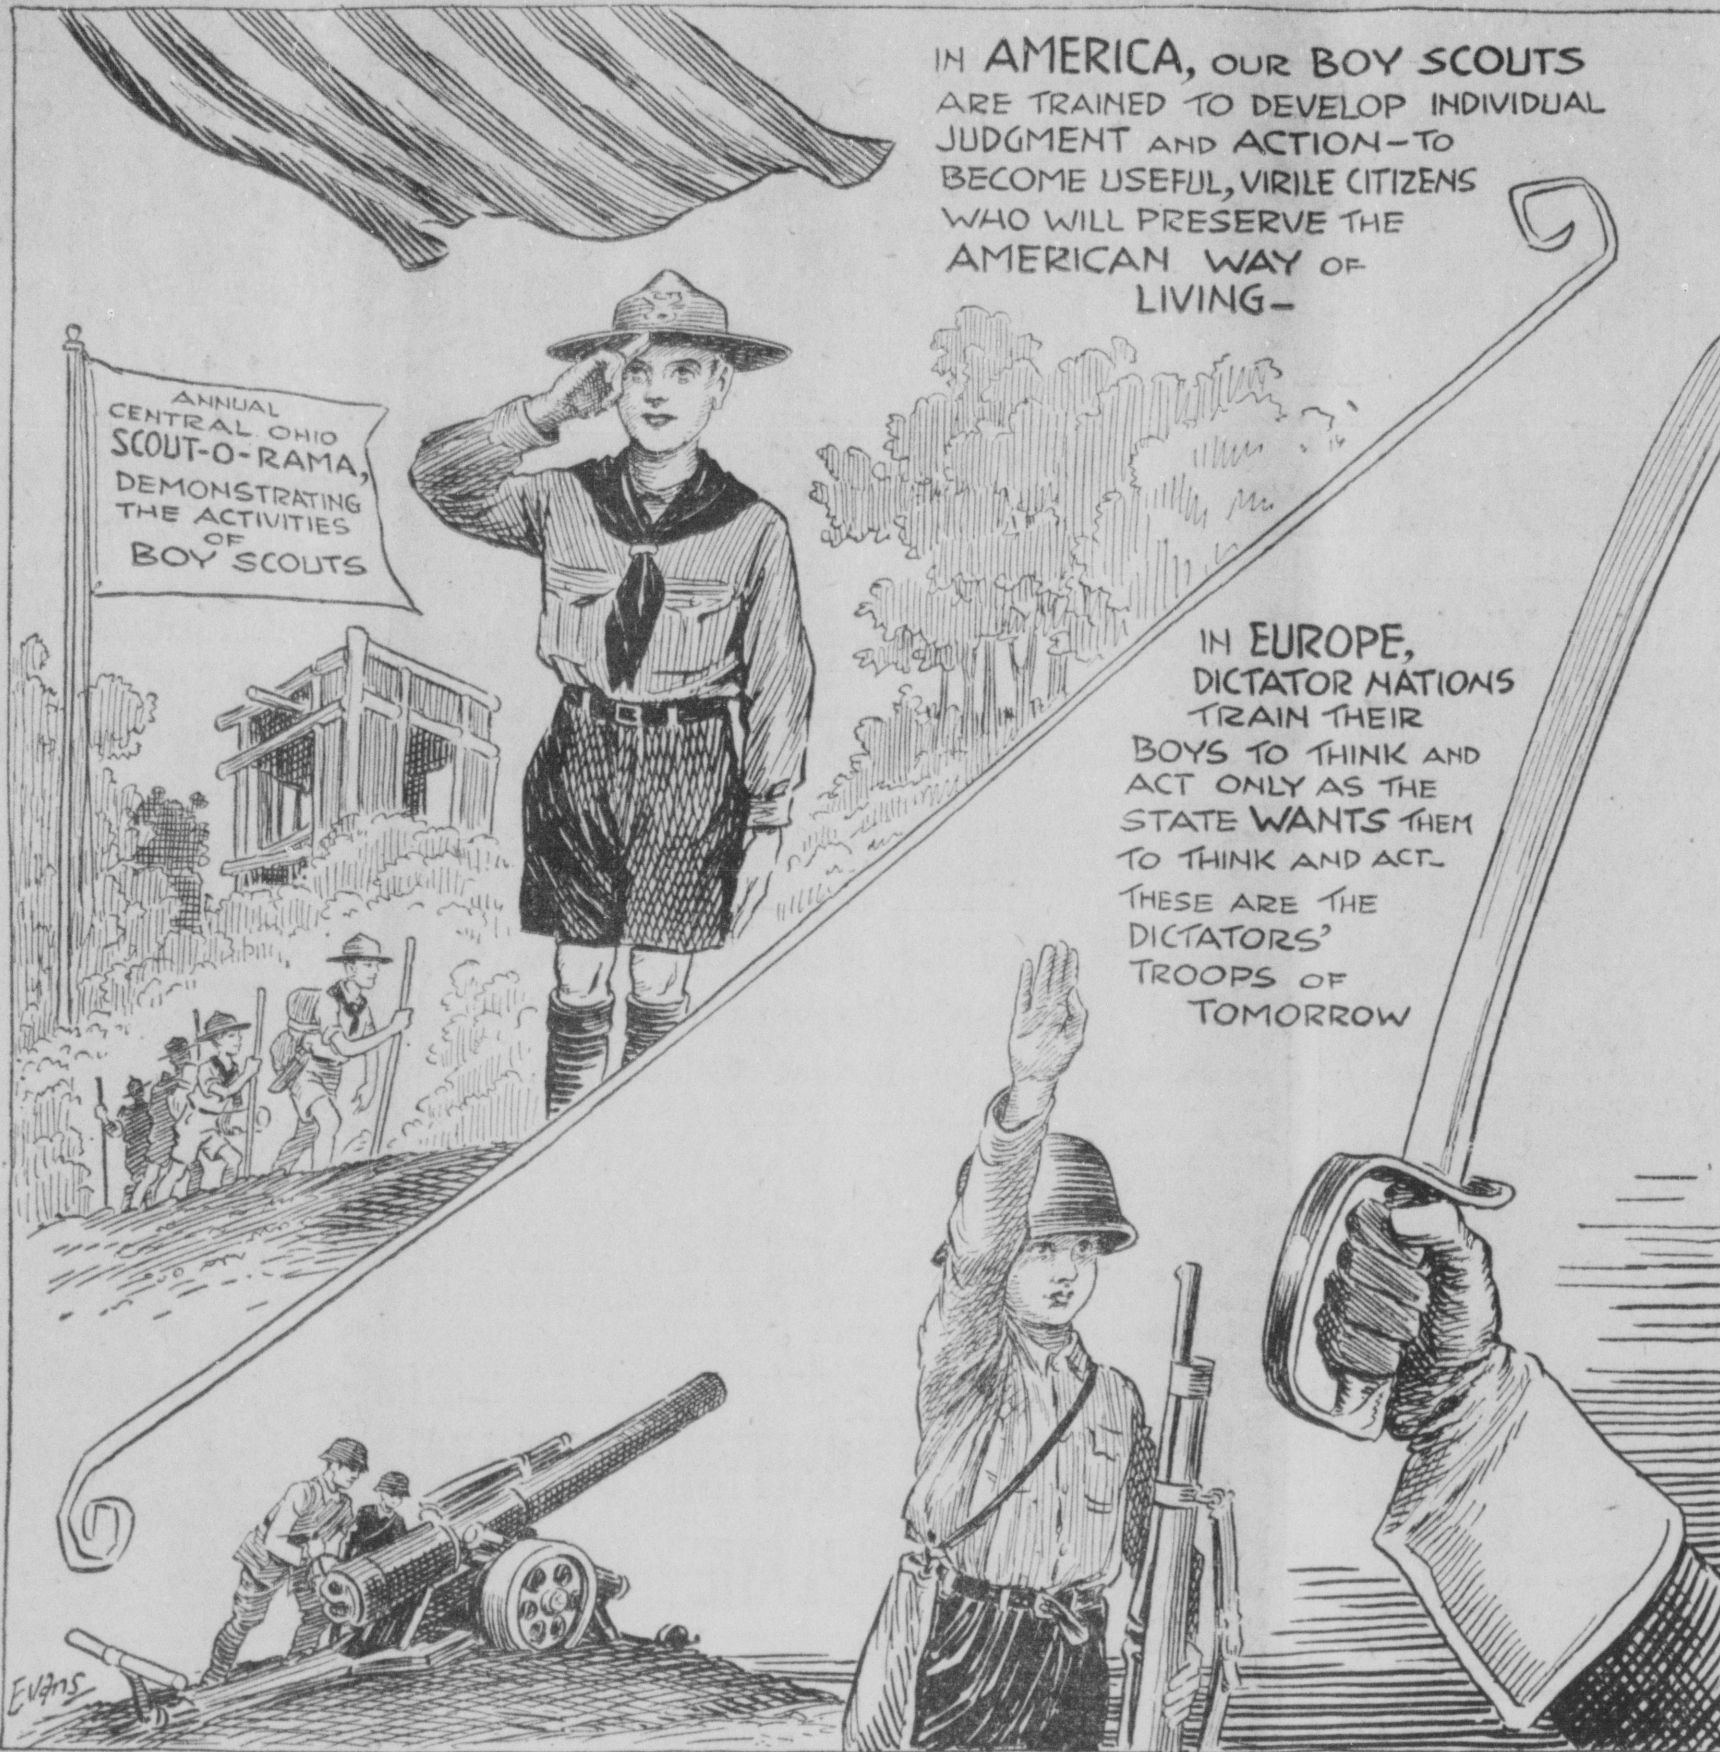

JAMES I. SMITH, JR.

District meeting. Rev. Robert T. Kelsey and William Radcliff were elected vice chairmen of the district.

Under the new set up Smith is confident that Scouting in the County will expand. He is especially hopeful for and increase of volunteer leadership in the county through which new troops can be started.

Boy Scouts took prominent parts in the New York World's Fair and the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco in 1939.

SCOUT-O-RAMA TO BE CONDUCTED MAY 18 IN COLISEUM

IN AMERICA, OUR BOY SCOUTS ARE TRAINED TO DEVELOP INDIVIDUAL JUDGMENT AND ACTION—TO BECOME USEFUL, VIRILE CITIZENS WHO WILL PRESERVE THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIVING—

IN EUROPE, DICTATOR NATIONS TRAIN THEIR BOYS TO THINK AND ACT ONLY AS THE STATE WANTS THEM TO THINK AND ACT. THESE ARE THE DICTATORS' TROOPS OF TOMORROW

Saturday, May 18, has been announced as the date for the 1940 Boy Scout-O-Rama in which local Boy Scout Troops and Cub Packs will participate with other Scouting units in the Central Ohio Area Council, sponsors of the annual demonstration. Since 1921, the Scout-O-Rama, formerly called the "Scout Circus", has been held in the State Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus, attracting thousands of spectators to witness "Central Ohio's biggest boys' show."

Scoutmasters and Cubmasters of Circleville and Pickaway County troops and packs have received complete information concerning this year's show which will include competitive Scoutcraft events, camping and pioneering exhibits, a Cub show, Sea Scout act and the traditional grand entry of more than 5000 Scouts, Cubs Senior, Scouts and their leaders. Local boys will participate in several events in addition to the grand entry.

George Landis, Columbus attorney, is general chairman of the Scout-O-Rama and will be assisted by "Reg" Heber, veteran showman, as program chairman, and A. W. Raymond as arrangements chairman. Landis is a member of the executive board of the local Council and chairman of the camping committee which recently finished the construction of a new swimming pool at the Scout Reservation.

Proceeds from the sale of general admission tickets will enrich troop and pack treasuries. In addition to the commissions received, individual Scouts will have an opportunity to win prizes for ticket selling. Three bicycles will be awarded to the boys who sell the greatest number and six camp scholarships will be presented to the Scouts selling the next greatest number. The scholarships will entitle the boys to a free two-week period this summer in addition to the district chairman. Howard Orr and Renick Dunlap, Kingston, as well as at the Scout Reservation. Reserved seats will be sold by executive board members to defray expenses of the production.

Completely under the supervision of volunteer leaders, the Scout-O-Rama is unique in that it is never rehearsed in its entirety before the final performance. Preceded by a half-hour band concert, there will be one performance only, beginning at 8 p. m.

Robert T. Kelsey, W. D. Radcliff Busy

Two prominent Circleville citizens have aligned themselves with the local Boy Scout organization as vice-chairman with particular emphasis on the "quality" and "quantity" of the popular youth work. Both men have been actively identified with numerous civic undertakings and have been connected with Scouting for the past three years.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, formerly chairman of the committee on Scout advancement, will seek to improve the quality of local Scouting by giving supervision to committees on Scout advancement.

leadership and training, and camping and activities.

William Radcliff, former district Scout commissioner, will attempt to extend Scouting and its results by giving leadership to men affiliated with the organization and extension committee, finance committee and publicity. Efforts will be made to bring Scouting before more people and urge its adoption in existing institutions which are in a position to give attention to their youth.

Radcliff is a former Scout, as are several other men now active in leadership positions. Both men are well known in Circleville and throughout the county and both are Rotarians.

Dan McClain Takes Charge Of Camping

Camping and Activities Committee has recently been added to the Scouting picture in Pickaway County. Dan McClain has agreed to accept the responsibilities in connection with the work on this Committee.

A Camping and Activities Program includes organization of such things as the District Cam-oree, Scout-O-Rama Eliminations, Civic Service, and District Rallies. The committee also promotes week end and summer camping for all Scouts.

McClain has had considerable experience in activities of this type and it is felt by Scouters of this county the addition of his personality will serve to greatly improve this part of the Program.

The coming Scout-O-Rama on May 18, for which district eliminations will be held some time during the first week in May, will be the first event to come under the supervision of the new Committee.

PLANS CHANGED FOR DISTRICT

Two New Vice-Chairmen Have Important Roles In Organization

200 GIVEN GUIDANCE

Dr. David Goldschmidt To Play Vital Part In Development

A revised plan of organization for Scouting in the Pickaway district for the express purpose of bringing to an increasing number of boys the advantages of Scouting has been adopted and put into effect, according to local Scout officials. The new proposal includes the enlargement of the staff of district officers and improved services to institutions and groups of laymen interested in working with their own boys.

Two new vice-chairmen have been selected to assist James I. Smith, Jr., Pickaway district chairman, in the administration of Scouting in Circleville and Pickaway County. The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of the Circleville Presbyterian Church, and William Radcliff, local attorney, have accepted these responsibilities and will supervise definite phases of the work.

Additional committee chairmen to head year-round standing committees will also supplement the efforts of other Scouters. Following are the men who have agreed to promote their respective assignments: Joe Adkins, committee on Scout advancement; C. D. Early, organization and extension committee; Charles Goeller, finance committee; Virgil Cress, leadership and training committee; Glen Gelb, publicity, and Dan McClain, camping and activities. Dr. David Goldschmidt has been appointed Scout Commissioner to provide constant contact with the Central Ohio Area Scout Office in Columbus. Dr. Goldschmidt will cooperate closely with Field Scout Executive, Robert Scanland.

Statistics recently revealed by the Central Ohio Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, of which this district is a part, indicated that Scouting progress here was not keeping pace with that in other counties of the Council, and throughout the country, generally. With this definite challenge, local men have determined to improve the situation.

Only ten percent, or about 200 out of 2000 available boys in Pickaway County, are now being reached with the program of Scouting. This is far below the national average, it has been pointed out.

With the consistent growth of the Boy Scout movement in the United States as an influencing factor, efforts will now be made to acquaint more churches, PTA groups, fraternal organizations and service clubs in the district with the valuable character-developing and citizenship-training opportunities it provides. Entirely lay-operated, Scouting offers a program which has been universally accepted as the outstanding agency of its kind.

Local Scouters are optimistic over the possibilities which are expected to develop with the inauguration of the new plan. With more men actively engaged in furthering Scouting and more parents taking part as their boys become Scouts, it is evident that a community attitude which has been tolerant, but apathetic, may now become enthusiastic and progressive.

As pointed out by commissioner Goldschmidt the following troops are now active in Pickaway County:

Troop 5, Presbyterian Church, Kingston, parent institution; the Rev. A. M. Forrester, pastor; Burdette Bernard, scoutmaster; Renick W. Dunlap, troop committee chairman; the Rev. Mr. Forrester, Frank Sharp, F. P. Long and L. E. Hill; meets 7:30 p. m. each Thursday.

Troop 43, Williamsport; group of citizens, parent institution; George Lemay, head of committee; Adrian McVey, scoutmaster; troop committee, the Rev. D. H. Householder, chairman; C. E. Boyer, Kenneth List, Fred Tipton, Clarence Dunning, William Radcliff.

Troop 85, Tarlton; parents institution, group of citizens headed by W. E. Luckhart; D. M. Bockert, scoutmaster; troop committee, W. E. Luckhart, chairman; Randolph Wolfe and John Morrison.

Troop 86 (Negro); Second Baptist Church, sponsoring institution; W. A. Jones, deacon; Frank Smith, scoutmaster; troop committee, the Rev. C. L. Thomas, chairman; W. A. Jones, Robert Jones; assistant scoutmaster, M. Jones.

Troop 107, Circleville; Methodist Church, sponsoring institution; Ervin Leist, scoutmaster; troop committee, George P. Bach, chairman; Dan McClain, Herschel Hill, Dwight L. Steele, the Rev. C. F. Bowman; assistant scoutmasters, Joseph Bell and Donald R. Beaty.

Troop 146, New Holland; group of citizens, sponsoring institution; Kenneth Bobb, scoutmaster; troop committeemen, Ralph Dawson, Gordon Dunkel, Harold Costlow and the Rev. V. C. Stump.

Hansen To Direct Cub Pack Activity

A reorganization of the Circleville Cub Pack will be started at a meeting to be held in the Methodist Church Tuesday evening, April 2, at 7:30 p. m. Pielgord Hansen is to be the new Cubmaster of the Pack and will be assisted by several men, women and Boy Scouts who realize the possibilities of this program for 9, 10 and 11-year-old boys.

Cubbing is a program which gives parents an opportunity to play creatively with their sons. Boy Scouts also act as leaders for the Cubs and in this way learn to be leaders and at the same time stimulate in the younger boy a desire to be a Scout when he is twelve years of age.

Weekly Den meetings are the main feature of the Cubbing program at which time the Boy Scout Den Chief and the Den Mother conduct the activities centered around recreation and character development of the Cubs.

the Central Ohio Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, of which this district is a part, indicated that Scouting progress here was not keeping pace with that in other counties of the Council, and throughout the country, generally. Troop Development Goldschmidt's Task

Dr. David Goldschmidt, recently appointed District Commissioner, is mainly concerned with the servicing of the troops now operating in the District and assisting in the training of new and old Scout leaders of the county.

Goldschmidt at the present time is building up a neighborhood commissioner staff whose job it will be to visit monthly with the troops of the county. Several men have indicated a desire to take part in this most important phase of the Scouting program. Dr. J. J. Baker, Melvin Mettler, Gene Joffe and Jay Clark are among those who are to be connected in this capacity.

As pointed out by commissioner Goldschmidt the following troops are now active in Pickaway County:

Troop 5, Presbyterian Church, Kingston, parent institution; the Rev. A. M. Forrester, pastor; Burdette Bernard, scoutmaster; Renick W. Dunlap, troop committee chairman; the Rev. Mr. Forrester, Frank Sharp, F. P. Long and L. E. Hill; meets 7:30 p. m. each Thursday.

CHURCH RITES TO AID WHITE CROSS HOSPITAL

$325,000 To Be Gathered From Congregations For Columbus Institution

The First Methodist Church of Circleville and the charge in other parts of the county have arranged special services for Sunday to aid in the celebration of "Hospital Sunday" which will take place in every Methodist Church in the Ohio Conference and participating districts of the North-East Ohio Conference.

The Rev. C. F. Bowman of the Circleville Methodist Church will use as his sermon theme "The Healing Ministry of the Church." The special services throughout Ohio are being held in conjunction with the campaign to raise $325,000 for the White Cross Hospital. The goal of the campaign which opens April 1 has been proportioned throughout the Ohio Conference as follows: $225,000 from Columbus churches and civic-minded individuals; $100,000 from the remaining districts in the Ohio Conference and the two participating districts in the North-East Conference.

Regarding "Hospital Sunday," Bishop H. Lester Smith said, "White Cross hospital is one of the agencies whereby the Methodists in Ohio carry on the work of Christ in the ministry of healing. Our provisions to care of the sick and the helpless young and old show to the world that the church is interested in people—that it cares. Our hospitals and homes and other institutions provide for the opportunities to give expression to our faith in living service. Our Master was accustomed to serve—and we are His followers."

Bishop Smith added, "We are proud to claim White Cross hospital as a part of our church program. The conference holds title to the hospital property and we recognize our obligation to cooperate in its maintenance." "I am confident that every Methodist in the Ohio Conference and the participating districts of the North-East Ohio Conference will be glad to have a share in the campaign to help lift the indebtedness from White Cross hospital," the Bishop concluded.

The $325,000 will be used by the board of trustees of the hospital to retire current outstanding indebtedness; payments upon which the hospital is unable to meet this year.

EMPHASIS ON SERVICES STRESSED AFTER LENT

The period between Easter and Pentecost will be marked in the Evangelical Church by a special emphasis on the Holy Spirit and His work. A part of this time will be given to a special series of Evangelistic services. From March 31—April 14 there will be services conducted each evening at 7:30. These services will be preceded at 7:00 each evening by a period of prayer in the prayer room of the Church.

The Rev. Edward T. Shepherd of Johnsville, Ohio has been engaged as Pastor-Evangelist for this series and will bring the gospel message each evening. The special music will be under the direction of the Young people of the Church.

Marajo Island, at the mouth of the Amazon river, is as large as Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island combined.

Scripture—Matthew 28:16-20

By Alfred J. Buescher

After Jesus' resurrection He appeared to His apostles in Galilee, and most of them believed it really was He and worshipped Him, but some doubted.

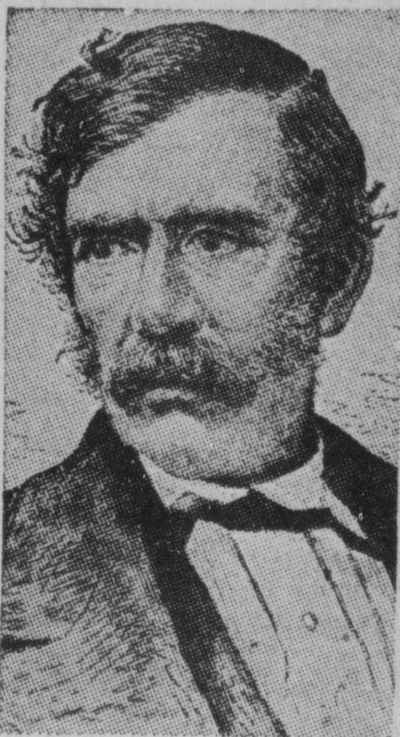

Thomas, however, was not with the others when Jesus first appeared, and he was a doubter until Jesus appeared again and told Thomas to touch Him.

Another time Jesus showed Himself to His apostles when they were fishing; He told them where to cast their nets which were brought up full.

Jesus' last command: "Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, and lo, I am with you always." (GOLDEN TEXT—Acts 1:8)

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: I have a trellis in the shape of an arch about seven feet high. Is there a climbing evergreen that would provide a dense foliage for this? If so, will it thrive here in Ohio?

ANSWER: You will find that any of the forms of the wintercreeper will give you a satisfactory evergreen vine for your arch. Of the three forms, Euonymus radicans, E. radicans vegetus, and E. radicans coloratus, I believe you will find the last one will be the fastest growing but the vegetus variety will provide the best effect.

QUESTION: How far back and when do you prune rose bushes of the monthly variety? How can I get results in growing these?

ANSWER: You will find complete instructions for the pruning and culture of garden roses in our bulletin Garden Roses, which you may obtain from your county agricultural agent.

QUESTION: I have an annual blooming rose bush that has been covered with a white substance for several years. Although I have cut it back to the ground two or three times, the new growth becomes affected. Is there anything I can do to overcome this or should I dig it up and destroy it?

ANSWER: You will find that almost all roses are susceptible to this same difficulty which is a fungus disease or mildew. Some of the older varieties such as Dorothy Perkins are particularly susceptible. It can easily be prevented by dusting or spraying with sulphur previous to its appearance each year.

QUESTION: I would like to write to Bessie Buxton in regard to her book on begonias. Will you please tell me where I can reach her?

ANSWER: Mrs. Buxton's address is Peabody, Massachusetts.

QUESTION: I have a lattice on both sides of my garage entrance which I wish to plant with a hardy flowering vine which dies to the ground each year and comes up anew from the roots, rather than one whose woody stems remain from year to year, leaving out with the return of spring. Will any of the large flowering clematis answer my desire? If not, will you kindly recommend some vines that will answer the above descriptions?

ANSWER: You will find that any of the hardy forms of clematis, although normally the tops remain over winter, can be cut to the ground and allowed to grow up anew each year. For this purpose I would particularly recommend Clematis paniculata, C. coccinea, and C. montana. You will find these are hardier and more vigorous than the larger-flowered types such as henryi, jacksonii, Mme. Andre, and Ramona. If you wished a distinctly herbaceous vine, I would suggest that you try the cup and saucer vine, Cobaea scandens, or the Kudzu vine. You would also get very satisfactory results from using some of the annual vines which can be grown from seed each year such as the scarlet runner bean, hyacinth bean, var. Darkness, or some of the morning glories.

QUESTION: Is it true that it is necessary to have ants on the buds of your peonies in order for them to bloom properly?

ANSWER: I am glad to say it is not necessary. The ants are usually there eating the sticky substance covering the buds. But since ants usually carry plant lice from one part of the garden to

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, March 30

A DAY in which very definite progress is to be made in the way of stabilizing the affairs and marching on to security and success is indicated by the lunar aspects as well as mutual configurations. The latter suggest the employment of tact, diplomacy, strategy and intrigue rather than open and direct methods and techniques. This is due to the possibility of the opposition of those in power and authority. In all, industry, perseverance, steadfastness, sound ideas and practical programs are assured enduring results.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of opportunity for putting the affairs and the fortunes on a solid foundation, with perseverance, application, fidelity, sound plans and workable projects winning against possible opposition from superiors, employers or others whose support is desired. Strategy, cleverness, intrigue or subtlety are factors for enduring success and security.

A child born on this day may have all the solid and practical arts and skills and realize attainment of sound aims and ends by strategy, tact and diplomacy. Elders may be generous with gifts, bequests of other benefices.

The effervescence of champagne is credited to a Benedictine monk, Abbe Dom Perignon, who found that corks make better seals for bottles than the customary plugs of oiled wax.

THE AUTO STIMULUS

THE new cars come out, and now business begins to turn up again. It has to. Have people ever fully appreciated what the automobile does for this country? It isn't only providing transportation, and thereby creating a demand for goods and making people travel and binding the nation together and bringing life into long isolated communities. It isn't only providing jobs for all the people who make cars and parts and the people who sell cars and service. It serves as a perennial stimulus to keep people from stagnating.

They look at the new cars and a "divine discontent" comes over them. The little old bus that was all right yesterday, and good for a couple of years more, doesn't look so good now. The finish, the style, the nifty gadgets of these models catch the eye and begin taking hold of the soul as they are meant to do. And the looker is lost. He has to start working harder, or get himself a better job, so he can afford to buy one. There is no greater stimulus to economic effort and ambition.

There's another side to it, though. Some other forms of investment probably suffer from this dazzling competition. Housing, for instance. Millions more might own their homes, or build new ones, if the autos were not so alluring. And maybe the answer to that is to make both cars and houses still more attractive.

FLATTENING OUT

WAREHOUSES are said to be going flat now, spreading out one-story instead of building up into the air as the tendency has been for many years. Sears, Roebuck is said to be setting the style, but many others seem to be doing it. And not for storage only, but for retail stores.

Larger lots, of course, are needed in this way, but land is cheaper now and not so big a factor. The chief reason, though, for the single-story trend is mechanical. Warehouse elevators are said to be "bottlenecks" and there is a similar tendency in the elevators of stores with multiple floors.

It makes a person wonder whether dwellings will follow the same pattern now. There does seem to be a tendency to build homes somewhat lower. You don't see third stories much any more. The two-stories snuggle closer to the ground, and artistic, rambling single-stories are probably increasing.

The new spring offensive that Europe seems to be expecting may not be any more offensive than spring has been already.

You might think, from these census questions, that the fellow asking 'em was selling you a radio on the installment plan.

Lucky Canadians! Their national election is behind them.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE.... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:
Up and soon away to face the day's stint, heading for the post with car windows down and face aglaze at the absence of snow and cold. Learned that Uncle Sam had worked very little for me over the night, so rolled to the plant, there to find a broken machine and slowed production. Machines are not unlike men, they have sick spells, too.

Visited the Coffee Club and there learned that Fred Wittich had rushed the fishing season again, this time returning to the village with five nice bass, the limit. They came out of Yellow-bud and were caught on minnows. Learned that Harry Richey is returning home from the sanitarium next week and that is the best of news. Harry worked on these prints until sickness overcame him many months ago.

Summer must be just around the corner. Did notice a great display of fly spray and tin guns put up by Bish Given. Always did think until now that national holidays were established by act of congress, but the solons never have declared but one holiday by legislation and that was the Centennial Anniversary of the Inauguration of the First President of the United States back on April 30, 1889.

Pat Kirwin brought in some old papers, the Circleville Democrat of November 22, 1867, the Religious Telescope printed here on September 13, 1848, and other copies of the Telescope the next year. A. Beach apparently was the leading grocer in 1867. P. W. Rogers was trying to sell the American House, William Bauder was making carriages and farm wagons, Miss C. Witt was the milliner along with Mrs. E. Bayer and Mrs. W.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO HINCKLEY

WASHINGTON—The story has been told how at 4 o'clock last Tuesday morning, while European aviation was chalking up new records for death and destruction, the far-flung airlines of the U. S. set a different kind of record—one full year of operation without a single fatality or serious injury.

A number of factors have deservedly been given credit for this historic achievement: better planes, better personnel, better airports and radio facilities. There also was one other that played a leading part in the spectacular holiday from death—a man who eats, drinks and sleeps aviation.

He is Robert H. Hinckley, the quiet-mannered, indefatigable chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, to whom air safety records are an old passion.

Twelve years ago, long before there was anything even resembling the CAA and when almost every passenger plane that took off flirted with death, Hinckley organized the Utah-Pacific Airways. Its route was over some of the most treacherous flying terrain in the country—the Rockies. But in three years that he directed the line, it suffered not one fatal mishap.

It's not strange that only a few know this. There are many things about the tall, handsome Utahian, who will be 50 in June, that even his best friends don't know. He is that kind of man. Publicity is not his forte. But doing outstanding jobs definitely is. In his retiring, genial way he has been doing them all his life.

PILGRIM DESCENDANT

Bob Hinckley is one of the most unusual men in Washington. He is a Pilgrim descendant, a one-time missionary, a highly successful business man, one of the most brilliant executives in the Government, and an ardent New Dealer.

One of the things that few know about him is that he has a jail record. Hinckley is proud of it. It happened when he was seriously considering becoming a different kind of "sky pilot."

In his veins flows the blood of a long line of religious ancestors. One of them was Thomas Hinckley, Puritan governor of the Plymouth colony from 1681 to 1692. Another was Hinckley's grandfather, Ira Hinckley, who accompanied Brigham Young to Utah and became a pillar of the Mormon Church.

The religious zeal of his forebears burned bright in young Bob. At the age of 19 he gave up his studies at Brigham Young University and accepted a call as a Mormon missionary in Europe. Most of his three years was spent in Germany, where he had two experiences that greatly influenced his later life.

One, in 1913, was his first airplane flight, with Melli Beese, famous pioneer aviatrix. The other was the interlude in the cooler.

Hinckley was arrested by German authorities for spreading the Mormon gospel. The Kaiser's police were outraged that a foreigner should be doing missionary work in the Reich and they jailed young Hickey on a charge of "disturbing the peace." After a few days he was released on condition that he leave the country.

A man has lost his literary morale when he waits for his wife to read the new books and tell him he didn't miss much.

The dangers which are present for the speaker or writer before the public on the subject are, first, that he will make it disgusting and, second, that he will create unnecessary fear.

Needn't Be Present

The first danger need never be present. Cancer is a clean disease and not disgusting; in fact, one of the points in the fight against it is that it is so unobtrusive, it makes itself known so little, that the early stages are liable to be passed before anything is done.

As for the second danger, that of creating unnecessary fear, time has moved on so that we do not feel that way any more. There is something to be done for cancer and the earlier it is done, the more effective it is. So we feel in drawing attention to cancer—we are not idly or unnecessarily frightening you, because we have something concrete and constructive to offer in the way of cure, which was not true a few decades ago.

I like the distinction that has been made between a health article that, instead of "scaring you to death," "scares you to life." If you are scared to the extent that you have something done to save your life, it is a good thing to scare you a little.

Hopeful Example

A hopeful example exists in the Cured Cancer Club, sponsored by Dr. Anna C. Palmer, of Milton, Massachusetts, who herself was operated on for cancer in 1920. There were 29,195 people listed by the American College of Surgeons in 1938 as cured of cancer. There must be many more.

The Cured Cancer Club is open to anyone who is vouched for by his physician as having been cured of cancer for at least five years. The applicant need only subscribe to the statement, "I am willing to be known publicly as a cured cancer patient."

This column will discuss one of the phases of cancer once a week during the month of April. I do not want to make the subject oppressive but feel that it is my duty to bring good news from the fighting front of cancer control.

To aid in cancer control, educational pamphlets on "The Fight of the Women's Field Army Against Cancer" and "What to Know—What to Do About Cancer" are distributed by the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 350 Madison Avenue, New York City, and may be obtained for ten cents apiece.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. C. R.: "I have read that when horses are killed to obtain glandular extracts for medicinal purposes, the rest of the meat of the animal is used to make dog meats, and some of the choice cuts used for meat for humans. Horse meat, I hear, is high in vitamins and perfectly fit for human consumption. Is such a thing possible?"

Answer: Horses are not used for glandular extracts. Plenty of glands are obtained from the carcasses of other animals at the packing houses. In France horse meat is a common food, and special butcher shops—Boucherie de cheval—are common. I have eaten horse meat and found it palatable, more so than venison. I do not know that it contains any more vitamins than other meats.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

DEPENDABLE and trustworthy as a bridge star's wife may be most of the time, the bridge table is no place to trust her, if she is a keen competitor and is playing against him. Then is the time that some of the nicest ladies pick out crucial spots to underlead aces and resort to other nefarious devices which enable them to laugh weeks afterward about how they got even for various things the husbands had done.

Very strong No Trumps when vulnerable, with only 4-3-3-3 distributions, were used by North and South on this rubber deal. Others who use weaker No Trumps would have started with 2-No Trumps, South bidding 3-Spades, North 3-No Trumps and South 4-Spades.

One of our outstanding experts, who wants his name withheld, was declarer, and his wife led the heart

5. Expecting East to have the A but possibly not the Q, he ducked, and the Q won. A heart was returned to the A and a third round. South then led the spade 2. When she played the J, he guessed her for possibly the 6 but not the K, so played dummy's 10, the singleton J winning. Later, of course, he lost the setting trick to the spade K.

Her low heart lead really gave him a chance to make 6-Spades. If he came up with the K, then ran three diamonds, discarding a heart, following with the spade A and another to the Q, he would have lost only to the spade K. With normal defense and play, he would have lost only one trick in each major, making five-odd. And here he was set by his own wife.

THE KILLER SPEAKS

RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY

"WHAT IS this important clue you've uncovered?" I asked the reporter as he signaled a taxicab.

"I searched the river with the Markham motor boat yesterday," he explained, "and after I had gone downstream for miles without finding your boat I began to wonder if someone hadn't picked it up."

"My boat?"
"Sure! The rowboat in which you got away from that kidnaper. You turned it upside down and it was full of bullet holes, but it couldn't sink. It was made of wood. And I was pretty sure the kidnaper wouldn't go after it, because it was in midstream—he might have to follow it for miles."

"But what could you tell from a rowboat?"

He gave directions to the taxi driver as we climbed in, then continued, "There'd been no report to the police, and none of the offices of the water transportation companies had a report of an overturned rowboat being picked up by any of the employees. I was about ready to give up when I saw this old man with his covered wagon. He was camped at the edge of the river, below the Rio Vista club and just above town, on the opposite side."

"And he had the boat?"

"Right. He wouldn't say so, right off. He gave me a kind of funny answer, until I told him I'd give a reward for the boat. It was inside his wagon. I guess he figured on selling it, though it wasn't worth very much with those bullet holes in it. I tied it behind my boat and towed it upstream. Then I beached it and cut out the piece of wood where one of the bullets had lodged. I took the piece to a ballistics expert. He's taking the bullet out and studying it. If our luck holds, we'll find out what gun fired that bullet, and through the gun we'll uncover the owner."

"Belzer, you're a genius."

"Call me 'Scoop,'" he said modestly.

Our cab was following the road toward the river, north of the Rio Vista club. We stopped near a farmhouse I remembered from the preceding day. "Scoop" Belzer paid the driver as we got out, and explained in an aside to me, "It goes on my expense account."

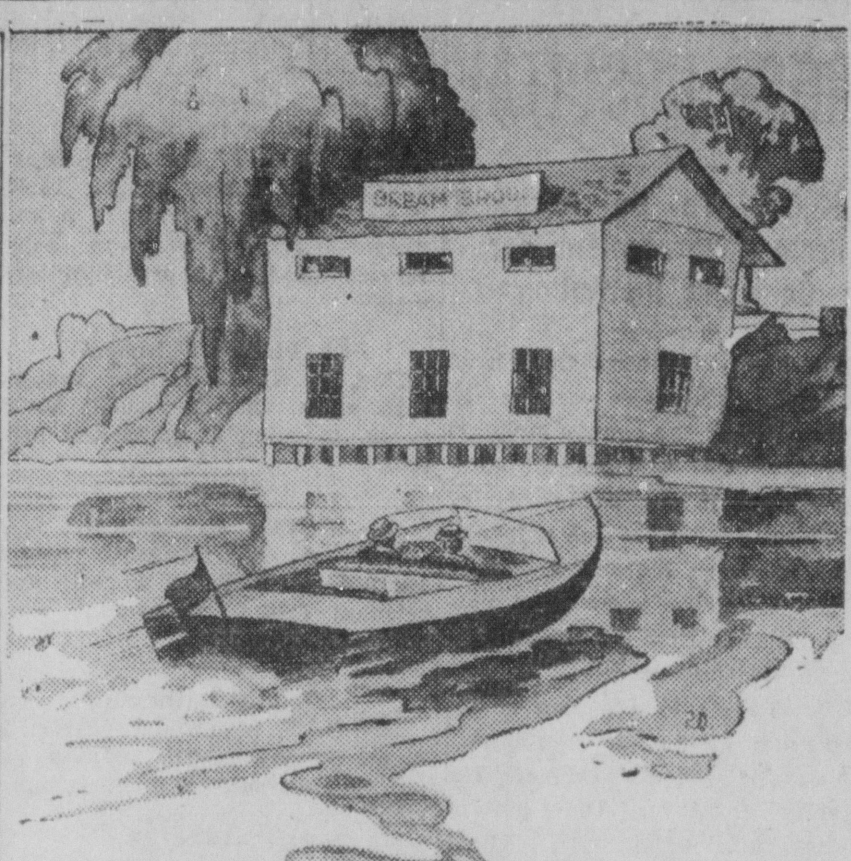

We descended the path to the river. The Markham motor boat was moored there, waiting for us. Belzer pulled one of the small, vital parts of the magneto from his pocket and put it in place. "Better than a look," he remarked. "No body can run the boat without it."

For ten minutes it seemed that Belzer could not even run the boat with it, but the engine finally started. We swung out into deep water and headed upstream. The river was smooth. Sunlight had long since dispelled the fog. I breathed deeply of the fresh air. "There's something about the water—" I started to remark.

"Yeah, I know," said my companion. "Keep your eyes peeled. What we're looking for now is the warehouse where you were kept prisoner."

"The only thing I remember about it was a few trees overhead, and the fact that the boat was a 'go in under the pillar'."

"Among the pling," he corrected me. "And it couldn't have been

"Look like the place?" Belzer whispered.

far upstream, could it?"

"No, not far."

There weren't many places to choose from. A dirty red structure with a faded sign that read "Broom Bros." seemed the most likely. Belzer swung the boat around and drifted downstream toward it with the motor shut off. The building extended out toward the water, but the water was not deep enough among the piles to float a rowboat.

"There was a high tide Tuesday night and another yesterday morning," Belzer whispered. "The water would have been a couple of feet deeper. Look like the place?"

"Ye-es, I believe it is. What do we do next?"

"We'll get inside."

He swung the boat inshore a hundred yards downstream. "That outfit sells potatoes," he told me. "Know anything about potatoes?"

I shook my head.

"Good. Just keep quiet. I'll be the potato buyer."

He jumped ashore and tied the boat. I followed him up the bank and back along the road to the warehouse.

A not-too-bright appearing young man in dirty overalls was mending sacks on the warehouse platform. He looked up without much interest.

"Is this the Broom Bros. warehouse?" Belzer asked, and on receiving a nod, added, "We understand you've got some pretty nice spuds here."

"Guess so," said the young man. "Bosa is away. You wanta look at 'em?"

"That's the general idea."

The young man stretched his legs and got up. "Ain't so much here now. Business been bad." He unlocked the door and preceded us inside.

It was the place, all right. I recognized it by the odors, even before I identified the windows. I gave Belzer a nod when he threw me an inquiring glance.

"Not very much on hand," Belzer agreed with our guide. "Anything down stairs?"

"Naw. Ain't been anything down there for years. We quit using boats. Trucks are cheaper."

"You mean there's no way to get to the lower floor except by the boat landing?"

"That's right. But there ain't no boat landing. It washed away in the big flood six years ago."

The reporter was feeling some of the potatoes in open sacks. "I'm afraid these aren't quite what I want," he said. "Maybe we can do some business, though. I've got some friends who are talking about starting a boat club. Think we could rent the lower floor of this warehouse?"

"Don't see why not. Boss never uses it. But it's awful dirty."

"Mind if I take a look?" Belzer asked, pausing at the head of the stairs, "while you show my friend some of your onions?"

"Go ahead," said the young man. He turned to me. "What kind of onions?"

"Why—oh—some kind for cooking."

It was a very uncomfortable ten minutes for me before Belzer returned from downstairs. I learned considerable about onions from this young man, whose mentality I seemed to have underestimated. Belzer was frowning when he climbed back up the stairs. "You're right, it's dirty. And no plumbing down there. I was expecting too much. When will you have more potatoes on hand?"

"We're expecting more early next week."

"Good. I'll be back." He grasped my arm and guided me toward the door.

"I'll load your sack of onions for you," the young man offered.

Belzer gave me a queer look, but after the young man carried the sack down to our boat the reporter paid the bill. "Another item for the expense account, I suppose," he mumbled as he cranked the engine.

"What did you learn?"

"Plenty! I've found the headquarters of the gang involved with the Rio Vista club. I've been looking for it for a long time."

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

More than 3,600 Hungarian partridges were released in Pickaway County by the Farmers' and Sportsman's Protective Association. The birds were obtained from Canada.

Miss Marvane Wallace and Miss Jeanne Crowe were included in a group of 40 young women, students of Miss Stella Becker, which was scheduled to present a spring program at the Bexley High School auditorium.

Miss Margaret Hunsicker, student in the Nurses' College of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, West Union Street. Five friends accompanied her for a house party in the Hunsicker home.

10 YEARS AGO

William P. Henderson, dean of law of Ohio Northern University, Ada, and Prof. Claude W. Pettit of the same university were the speakers at a banquet of lawyers at the Boggs Hotel. Guests at the banquet were attorneys who graduated from Ohio Northern and were practicing in Pickaway County.

Mrs. Turney Glick of Circleville Township, district deputy of Pythian Sisters, served as inspecting officer for the Adelphi temple.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein, was invited to broadcast over station WATU, Columbus, early in April.

25 YEARS AGO

Judge E. A. Brown delivered an address before the Mothers' Welfare Club of the Church of the Brethren on the subject, "Juvenile Court and Mothers' Penitentiaries."

Dr. A. W. Holman and Otto

Today's Horoscope

No need for those celebrating their birthdays on this date to worry for the next twelve months, as they will benefit through elders and through slow steady, sure gains. They are warned not to change their employment, however. If born today a child will be practical, ambitious and aspiring, but somewhat self-centered and intolerant of others. Gain through real estate is probable.

Horoscope for Sunday

Gain will come to those whose birthdays are today through strangers, new contacts and novel methods. Their businesses will prosper exceedingly, and a year of excellent progress is foreseen. The child born today will be very clever, original, of profound understanding and far-seeing. Such a one will be inclined, however, to attach too much importance to worldly goods.

JR. RESERVE TEA PLANS PROGRESS

This week plans for the Junior Girl Reserve tea were nearing completion.

Betty Moeller, chairman of the food committee, asked the girls to make suggestions for the refreshments. They decided to serve Swedish pastry, sandwiches, candy, nuts, tea and coffee.

Entertainment will be supplied by Mary Catherine Stine, chairman; Miriam Brown, Florence Dresbach, Dorothy Glenn, Marvinne Hennessy, Martha Killian and Eleanor Weaver.

The date for the tea is April 15 and not April 5 as printed in last week's edition of the Red and Black.

Anna Sue Reichelderfer conducted a program at the regular meeting Monday. She discussed motion pictures which are based on books. She spoke particularly on "Pinocchio" and "Gone With the Wind."

Scholarships of varying worth are granted by many Ohio colleges and out-of-state colleges to those who rank high in this test.

Circleville seniors who took the test are Robert Brehmer, Eleanor Brown, David Eagleson, Margaret Good, Hulse Hays, Jr., David Hillyard, Gale Hitchcock, Mary Elouise Curl, Goldie Isaac, Marilyn Lutz, Bill Lutz, Pat Mogan, Howard Orr, Jane Paul and Regina Thornton.

"Live Snakes of the World" was the topic of the demonstration given by Unit 27 of the United States Society of Zoology, Friday, March 29.

The purpose of the society is to increase interest in natural history. In this exhibition were the following reptiles: yellow anaconda, blue racer, American coachwhip, indigo snake, yellow bull and the king snake. All the snakes on display were alive.

Kindness in dealing with pets and wild animals was one of the main-points stressed by this company. The preliminary training and the care of pets and wild animals was explained.

PLAY PREVIEWED FOR CHS PUPILS

Everyone was tense as the house lights dimmed. Only the footlights of the stage flickered.

This preview Wednesday at 10:45 marked the first appearance of the junior class play before an audience.

Samuel R. Johnson, dramatic coach, announced the various scenes from acts one, two and three. "June Mad" proved highly successful with the student body.

Most of the "actors" and "actresses" who appeared in either the Thursday or Friday night production were in the preview.

Principal J. Wray Henry announced that all those students wishing to go to Washington D. C. should see him and buy their tickets this week.

This excursion over the B. & O. leaves Chillicothe at 5:45 a. m. Friday April 12 and returns early Sunday April 14.

SR. SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS OFFERED TO 15 STUDENTS

This morning at 9:00 at the high school building, the eleventh annual General Scholarship Test for high school seniors was administered to a group of Pickaway County seniors. This test is given yearly by the State Department of Education. In Pickaway County the test is given under the direction of a special committee, of which George D. McDowell is chairman.

Five separate tests of one-half hour each were given, covering fundamental principles of mathematics, English, history, science and reading.

Any student in the upper forty percent of his graduating class was eligible, and other seniors participated upon recommendation of their principals.

Numerous award certificates will be presented to high ranking students. A county certificate of award will be presented to those who place in the first ten in each of the counties. All others in the upper 25 percent of the group will receive honorable mention certificates.

Additional certificates will be presented to those who rank highest in each of the five districts of the state. Finally, each of the twenty-five girls and twenty-five boys who rank high in the state will receive state certificates of award. All additional students who place in the highest five percent of the state will receive honorable mention certificates.

Scholarships of varying worth are granted by many Ohio colleges and out-of-state colleges to those who rank high in this test.

Circleville seniors who took the test are Robert Brehmer, Eleanor Brown, David Eagleson, Margaret Good, Hulse Hays, Jr., David Hillyard, Gale Hitchcock, Mary Elouise Curl, Goldie Isaac, Marilyn Lutz, Bill Lutz, Pat Mogan, Howard Orr, Jane Paul and Regina Thornton.

SPRING IS HERE OR IS IT?

Too many days ago when it was so nice and warm outside, everyone perked up and things seemed rosy again. Our home work was one hundred per cent easier and for some reason or other our troubles seemed suddenly to have disappeared. But after Spring made its formal debut on March twentieth, we have seen nothing but cold dreary weather and I fear that we have spilled back into our old rut again with bad dispositions and quick temper.

Even though the weather is the most disagreeable we can imagine, that is no reason why we should not try to make the best of it and remember that our lessons must be prepared. Else when that dreaded Wednesday, which comes around every six weeks, dawns even the most beautiful, bright, sunny day can not save us from the doom which is sure to follow the failure to get home work.

We all hope that this March weather will soon cease and that April will bring fair weather and plenty of it. We are all anxious to get started practicing up on our favorite summer sports—golf, tennis, archery, and many others.

C. H. S. DEBATE TIE FOR SECOND

Wednesday, a bulletin from the Ohio Speech League disclosed that Circleville is in a three-way tie for second place in District One of debate competition.

Newark, one of Circleville's opponents, won the undisputed place of first with a record of four wins. Circleville, Columbus East and Springfield are listed second with two wins and two losses.

Columbus West and Washington C. H. bring up the rear with one win and three losses.

Debates this year "started from scratch" and after intensive study they began competition with class A teams. Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach, has stated that he is very pleased with the outcome of the "39-40" debate season and also that next year's season offers many good prospects with a complete squad of experienced debaters.

William Burget, Lloyd Jones, Leland Sieglward and Paul Turner represented Circleville in this year's league competition. These boys who are now sophomores and juniors all plan to be out for this activity next year.

Included in the subject matter is a brief statement of the origin of census taking in the United States, the expansion of the undertaking. Reasons for the type of questions asked each person and lastly, an appeal to each pupil to do his part as a future citizen in explaining the procedure to any one who does not understand either the method or the purpose of census taking.

Principal J. Wray Henry requested that each high school teacher thoroughly explain this important function to the pupils in each class and to answer any questions which might arise.

SENIOR RESERVE PLANS FOR SALE

Possibilities of having a bake sale April 6 was the topic of the special meeting of the Senior Girl Reserve Club called Wednesday at 3:45.

Margaret Adkins asked each girl to bring one poster advertising the sale.

Meeting was closed after the chairman of the dramatics, sports and domestic arts group gave a report on their activities.

20 ARE GUESTS AT ROTARY CLUB

At the regular Rotary Club meeting Thursday afternoon, 20 pupils of the public schools were present. The pupils were guests of various Rotarians. Captain Hays of the Boys Industrial School spoke on "Child Welfare".

JR. CAST OF 17 IN PRODUCTION MARCH 28 AND 29

A group of juniors made their stage debuts before the Circleville public on Thursday and Friday evenings. This class's presentation was "June Mad," a comedy in three acts by Colin Clemons and Florence Ryerson. It was presented by special arrangement with Samuel French.

Samuel R. Johnson, who coached the cast, was presented with a gift from the junior class on Friday night.

All of those juniors who worked to help put on this play are listed below.

Cast

Penny Wood, March 28, Norma Jean Brown; March 29, Rose Ann Griner.

Chuck Harris, March 28, James Callahan; March 29, Lloyd Jones, Jr.

Milly Lou, Mary Schreiner. G. Mervyn Roberts, Leland Sieglward.

Roger Van Vleet, Paul Turner. Mr. Harris, March 28, George Skaggs; March 29, Jack Beck.

Because the programs were printed before final arrangements for the play were made, a complete list of persons contributing properties did not appear there. For their co-operation and readiness to help them in this project, the junior class wishes to express their appreciation to these people: Mrs. Emmitt Crist, Mrs. Charles Caskey, Mrs. Lawrence Goeller, Mrs. Russell Imler, Harry Bartholomew, Mrs. Wilbur Funk, Mrs. William Thornton, Mrs. John Goodchild, Mrs. Max Friedman, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Zelma Skinner, Mrs. Charles Owens, Mrs. Mason Young and Mrs. Ren Mumaw.

Misses Margaret Boggs, Betty Cooper, Jane Klingensmith and Betty Sapp.

Dr. E. L. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Hildeburn Martin, Joseph Lynch and Loren Pace.

Brehmer's Greenhouse, Citizens Telephone Co., Griffith and Martin and Lutz and Yates.

They also wish to thank the high school orchestra for their music between acts; Mrs. Joseph Bell, who assisted Mrs. Johnson with make-up; Charlie Zaenglein for taking pictures of the cast; and the faculty for their relinquishing those associated with the play's production from classes.

Shirley Wentworth, Helen Beck. Ralph Wentworth, March 28, Lloyd Jones, Jr.; March 29, James Callahan.

Julie Harris, March 28, Doris Waters; March 29, Mary Adele Snider.

CLUB MEMBERS PLAN FOR DANCE

Stooge President Howard Orr opened the meeting Tuesday evening by taking a check on dance tickets. Club members have been busy preparing for the annual Stooge dance, which will be held in the Memorial Hall on April 5. Admission is $1.50 per couple; dancing is from 8:30 to 12:00. Bill Kessler's orchestra will furnish the music, and the affair is to be informal.

At this meeting Fred Watts, science instructor of C. H. S. acted as adviser in the absence of Virgil Cress.

Because of Junior Class play practice many members were absent from the meeting held at the home of William Burget.

EITEL FUNERAL RITES

TO BE MONDAY AT 2 P. M.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating, for Mrs. Carrie May Eitel, widow of John Eitel, who died Friday. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery by the Mader Service, the following to act as pallbearers, Walter Bumgarner, V. Klingensmith, Milton Manson, Herbert Melvin, George Green and Roy Hawks.

Friends may call at the home of Charles Eitel, 517 North Pickaway Street.

Mrs. Eitel was born November 8, 1870, a daughter of Thomas and Ellen Trisch Aumock. Surviving are the following children, George of Cincinnati Township; Mary Young of Millford, Ind.; Elizabeth Eppard of Cincinnati Township; Mrs. Nellie Bumgarner of Madison Township; John Eitel of Fairfield County; Daniel D. Eitel and Charles Eitel of Cincinnati; a brother, W. E. Aumock of Lancaster; a sister, Mrs. Flora Courtney of Zanesville, 26 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

CARS HIT AT ALLEY

Turning in the first alley east of Court on Watt Street, the car operated by Jane Colville and a truck driven by William Teets, Elm Avenue, collided. Teets was driving behind Miss Colville going in a westerly direction. Not expecting her to turn, he couldn't swerve his truck in time to avoid hitting her as she slowed down. The left rear bumper of the Colville car and a front fender and tire on the truck were damaged in the collision. Neither driver was hurt.

WORKER SHORTAGE CITED

CHILLICOTHE, March 30—A fear of a shortage of enumerators for the census when the job starts next Tuesday was expressed by Herbert Mattox, district census supervisor. Mattox says the job isn't nearly as complicated as it looks on paper since one glance at the instructions has frightened many out of the jobs.

FRANKFORT MAN CITED

Shirley Lee Deen, 31, Frankfort, was arrested at 12:30 a. m. Saturday and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. Charges of operating the car with fictitious license plates may also be placed against him. He will face a hearing in Mayor Cady's court Saturday afternoon.

DOWNES WINS PAIR

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 30 — George Downes, Ohio State University heavyweight, today held two victories in the National Collegiate wrestling championships. He gained decisions over George Chiga, Oklahoma A. and M., and Howard Buck, Iowa State, to enter the semi-finals.

POPE DEFEATS LANE

MT. VERNON, March 30—Fredie Pope, Columbus bantamweight boxing star, today held a third-round knockout over Tommy Lane, of Detroit, Mich. Pope, who weighed 116, scored the knockout with a left hook to the chin. Lane weighed 118.

BRIEFS TO BE FILED IN WILKINSON-PARKS SUIT

Judge Meeker Terwilliger ordered attorneys in the cast of Lyman Wilkinson vs. Boyce Parks to file briefs by Saturday, April 6, following the hearing on the petition in Common Pleas Court.

Wilkinson, Center Alley, brought suit against Parks, North Pickaway Street, for damages and injuries sustained last August when the car Parks was driving on South Scioto Street struck him. He asks $500 damages.

The accident happened when Parks was backing up his parked car on South Scioto Street between Mill and Union and struck Wilkinson who passed behind the car as he was crossing the street.

PURINA CHOWS BEATEN AT HOCKING TOURNEY

Purina Chows, Cincinnati entrant in an independent cage tournament at Union Furnace, lost 33-32 in the semi-finals Friday evening, New Marshfield turning in the victory.

The Purina boys, impressive in their victory over Chillicothe Stone's Grill Thursday evening, led until the last minute when New Marshfield scored enough to win.

REDS MET RED SOX; TIGERS RALLY TO WIN

TAMPA, Fla., March 30 — The Cincinnati Reds were to play the Boston Red Sox of the American League in Tampa today before breaking training camp and starting their trek Northward. Yesterday, the Reds lost to the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 8, the Tigers scoring eight runs in the seventh inning.

THREE AUTOMOBILES DAMAGED IN EARLY MORNING COURT STREET CRASH

DRIVER FALLS TO SLEEP, HITS PARKED AUTOS

Jack Lane, Four Others
Escape Without Injury
In Mishap

What appeared like a game of billiards, substituting automobiles for balls with the cue ball fast asleep, was enacted early Saturday on North Court Street near High Street scattering the balls over the brick-paved table top.

Jack Lane, Half Avenue, was driving south on North Court Street, when, police said, he fell asleep at the wheel at 3:30 a. m. to provide the rambling cue ball. Lane's car careened to the wrong side of the street hitting the parked car of Robert Timmons, North Court Street, knocking it around so that it hit the parked car of Robert Greisheimer, North Court Street.

That only completed the first round of the damage. The Timmons car was struck a second time so that it was forced over the curb against a tree. It seemed that all that remained was to be struck by the Lane automobile.

After hitting the Timmons car for the second time, Lane's auto struck and then pushed the Greisheimer vehicle for about 20 feet before it came to a stop. The picture at the completion of the accident was the Timmons' automobile against a tree on the sidewalk and the Lane and Greisheimer automobiles snuggled against one another further south on Court Street.

All three were badly damaged. The entire front end of the Lane auto was smashed. Timmons' car was smashed across the whole length of the left side and similar damage was suffered by the Greisheimer automobile.

Riding with Lane were Charles Harlow and Ray Arledge, Clinton Street, and Vincent Reed, East Mound Street. None of the occupants of the automobile was injured.

EXAMINER FINDS RELIEF ACCOUNT IN COUNTY OKEH

time between the city and county wherein the county relief office continued to handle the city load.

Declarations of several city officials at a recent meeting of council that they believed Circleville should have a balance to its credit were discounted by the examiner's finding. He came to Circleville at the request of the county commissioners who wished any question arising between the city and county concerning relief expenditures to be settled.

Claims of some of the officials that Circleville should have a larger share of public utility tax money because it contributes more to this account were blasted, too, when figures were compared. Of the county's public utility tax duplicate of $13,533,000, only $1,247,000 is in Circleville. This represents nine percent. Harrison Township, where the Picway Power Plant is located, has 36 percent of the total, $4,938,000.

During the first two months of 1940 the county was forced to go into its general fund to obtain money to pay its share of the relief cost. A bill for $2,020.47 has been presented to the city for its share, but no part of this amount has been paid.

TRUCKER, 22, CITED

Cecil Gaul, 22, Sumner, O., was arrested at 9:55 a. m. Saturday and charged with speeding. According to police, he drove his one and one-half ton truck carrying a load of six tons over the Norfolk and Western Railroad tracks on South Court Street at 42 miles per hour. A $10 cash bond was posted by Gaul pending a hearing in Mayor William Cady's court at 7 p. m. Saturday.

Patrolman Miller Fissell, in charge of traffic and motor vehicles, reported Saturday that he had cited four more drivers for parking on the wrong side of the street in violation of the new traffic ordinance that became effective last Saturday. Citations will continue, he warned, as long as drivers fail to heed the new regulation.

Finals in the ping pong tournament being conducted at the Circle Recreation parlors will be contested Monday at 8:30 p. m. Jack Simison and Harold Stonerock will meet in singles, and these two youths will meet Ted Schmidt and Bob Currier in doubles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Leach, Northridge Road, have returned home after attending the Mid-Atlantic Winter Stake dog trials at Port Conley, W. Va. Dogs owned in Charleston, W. Va., and Cleveland won the winners' and runnersup stake.

Andrew U. Thomas, North Court Street, will be installed Tuesday evening as exalted ruler of the Circleville Lodge of Elks. He will succeed Paul D. Miller, Past Exalted Ruler Harry D. Jackson will serve as installing officer. The meeting begins at 8 o'clock with a buffet supper to be served after the ceremony.

Dr. Ovid Burt, 36, Londonderry, was stopped on South Court Street at midnight Friday and charged with speeding. He said that his haste was necessary because he was on a call. Police did not detain him, but cited him to appear in Mayor William Cady's court at noon Saturday.

Mrs. C. E. Little of South Pickaway Street, who is recovering at Grant Hospital, Columbus, after a major operation, will be removed Sunday to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. MADISON COUNTY OFFICIAL TO AIR PEN SHORTAGES

LONDON, March 30—If reported findings of shortages in the commissary accounts of the London Prison Farm are borne out by further investigation, the evidence will be presented to the Madison County grand jury which meets April 8, Prosecutor D. H. Jackson declared today.

Supt. W. F. Amrine reported yesterday that a state examiner's investigation had revealed an alleged $1,200 shortage in the commissary accounts, padded pay rolls and forged withdrawal slips. These accounts, Amrine said, were handled by convict clerks.

The findings reportedly covered a period before Amrine became superintendent of the institution last Sept. 5.

Evidence turned over to Jackson showed, according to Amrine, that prisoners employed in the chief clerk's office took money and charged it to the accounts of other convicts; that they received money from visiting relatives intended for other prisoners and failed to account for it; and that names of numerous innocent men were employed to cover up fictitious transactions.

ity in the Polish documents is contained in an alleged report of a conversation between Bullitt—debonair and wealthy young friend of the President—and Potocki. The Polish envoy allegedly reported to Warsaw that Bullitt told him the President had a deep hatred of the totalitarian states, that he was carrying out a huge armament program here and was prepped to support the Allies on the field of battle if they went to Poland's defense and later needed help.

Potocki, who earlier had visited the State Department to discuss the German charges with American officials, issued this statement by telephone from his embassy: "The publication of the pretended documents is obviously for propaganda purposes. I deny the allegations attributed to my report. I never had a conversation with Ambassador Bullitt on America's participation in the war."

Hull Angered

The statements by Bullitt and Potocki were preceded by a formal denial from Hull. The secretary reportedly angry over the allegations made in Berlin, made the following statement at his office: "I may say most emphatically that neither I nor any of my associates in the Department of State have ever heard of any such conversations as those alleged, nor do we give them the slightest credence."

"The statements alleged have not represented in any way at any time the thought or the policy of the American government."

10-YEAR SEARCH FOR FUGITIVE, 45, COMES TO END

CHILLICOTHE, March 30—A 10-year search for Joseph Boyers, 45-year-old fugitive from the Michigan City, Ind., prison farm, who, since his escape, remarried and settled down, ended today with his arrest by Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery.

Boyers was apprehended in a Clarksburg garage where, though a quirk of fate, he had secured employment as a mechanic. Boyers was serving a one to five year term for chicken stealing when he walked away from the Indiana prison.

Shortly before Labor Day, 1938, officials traced Boyers to Portsmouth and prepared to arrest him there. But he was on a holiday trip. Driving near Clarksburg, he ran out of gas.

He made his way to a garage and offered to work in exchange for a tank of gas. He did the work so well he was offered a permanent job which he accepted.

Following that incident, he brought his wife, a Portsmouth girl, to Clarksburg along with a 16-year-old son by his first wife, now deceased. He never changed his name and made several trips to Indiana to visit relatives during the 10-year period.

forgot the crouch, the punching and everything and left himself a wide open target. His hands were down, his chin was up and Louis knocked him down three times in the first round, twice for eight counts then for nine, only to see him saved by the bell for the finisher in the second.

Precise Right Does It

Paychek didn't know what struck him. Briefly, it was a right to the chin, timed so precisely and executed with such brilliant savagery that his head bounced and rolled when he toppled backward at full length. Referee Arthur Donovan perfunctorily signalled that the fight was over at the count of six, with Paychek's 187½ pounds stretched out, trying to arise but obviously through.

For Louis, who scaled 200½ pounds, it was his record-breaking 10th successful defense of the championship, and a comeback from his miserable showing against Arturo Godoy last month, but of no particular credit to him. He was a 10 to 1 favorite going into the ring strictly on the basis of Paychek being unable to fight physically. Had it been possible to foresee his emotional reaction Louis would have been 100 to 1.

ANOTHER MOVE ON ADOLF SEEN

LONDON, March 30—Another attempt on Hitler's life... Mutiny in the German fleet... New secret Nazi weapon... Ribbentrop deposed... Italy declares war on Russia!

These, according to "Trance Man" Tom Campbell, of London, will be the big news events of the future. Campbell's past predictions have been uncannily accurate.

Campbell "saw" the war, he "saw" the Munich bomb affair, and numerous other events of historical importance. His latest predictions are:

There will be another attempt on the life of Adolf Hitler shortly. It may fail, but the Fuehrer nevertheless will meet a violent death at the hands of his present friends.

Unrest in Nazi Navy

Unrest will speed among German sailors. This will follow, predicts Campbell, Britain's successful anti-U-boat campaign. Many will be shot, and some may even surrender after wrecking their craft.

At sea too, Germany will introduce yet another "secret weapon." This will take a heavy toll of British and neutral shipping for a month or so. But, according to Campbell, all will be well for Britain. For he sees a grey-haired man inventing a successful counter-measure.

The future will show, says Campbell, that Russia will take increasing interest in the Balkans. After warning her, Italy will declare war on Russia. Germany will just watch.

Another attack foreseen is one by Russia on Sweden. Hitler will take advantage of this move to vent his wrath on Ribbentrop, using a trumped-up charge to depose him, according to Campbell.

U. S. Move Against Nazis

In the United States too, London's "trance man" sees things. He sees a surprise move by America against the Nazis, following subversive activity by Nazi agents.

"It may even end in America participating in the war," says Campbell, "though I am more inclined to believe that she will take economic action rather than send troops to fight in France."

The end of the war will come shortly after the Allies, at their third attempt, have broken through the Siegfried Line. "I see the German defenders stunned by some mysterious weapon controlled by wireless," says Campbell.

"The reverse will do much to

Potocki Declares Action In Berlin Merely Propaganda, Discounts Reports

WASHINGTON, March 30—A battle of words, more intense in its sphere than the battle of steel now being fought in Europe, raged today between the United States and Germany.

While the German press accused the Roosevelt administration of war mongering, Washington officials branded as fakes the alleged reports to the Polish foreign office of conversations between Polish and American diplomats, made public by the German foreign office yesterday.

These reports purported to show that William C. Bullitt, U. S. ambassador to Paris; Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to London and others incited Poland to resist Germany and promised American aid if Great Britain and France needed it. They were emphatically denied last night by President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, Bullitt and Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States, who allegedly sent some of the quoted reports to Warsaw.

Bullitt in Center
Bullitt, central figure in the charges hurled back and forth between Washington and Berlin, late last night, after newspapermen had sought him vainly for some hours, issued this statement:

"The President has already indicated that propaganda of this nature should be taken with several grains of salt. This particular piece of propaganda should be taken with even more salt. I have never made to anyone the statements attributed to me."

RUINS HUNTED FOR VICTIMS OF LOUISIANA GALE

NAPOLÉONVILLE, La., March 30—Hundreds of workers sifted the rain-sodden ruins of the wrecked village of Pierre Part for bodies today as authorities placed five the known victims of yesterday's tornado.

Two missing children whose house boat homes were sunk were believed to have drowned in Pierre Part Bay.

"I believe many are still missing, but unreported," Sheriff Himel said.

The known dead were:

Mrs. Theresa Breau, 60, Pierre Part.

Agnier Cavaliere, 12, Pierre Part.

Alma Temple, 1, Pierre Part.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Butler, 5, Bogalusa Negro.

Mike Aaron, Tangipahoa Parish Negro.

Only one structure at Pierre Part, the new schoolhouse where 300 children huddled, escaped the twisting wind that leveled the town.

Three boys and three girls from Dayton were arrested by police at 5:15 a. m. CENTERING their investigation near the campus of Penn State College, State College, Pa., on the theory the slayer of Rachel Taylor, 17-year-old co-ed, knew the girl, police continued their efforts to seek a clue to the brutal slaying.

Heating Contractor Held In State College After Co-ed's Murder

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 30—Worn but unbroken after a night of grilling by police, the state's chief suspect in the slaying of Rachel H. Taylor, 17-year-old Pennsylvania State College freshman, was transferred again for further questioning today.

Nagle P. Young, 35-year-old State College heating contractor held for questioning following his arrest in Philadelphia, was moved from the Centre County prison to the Pennsylvania motor police barracks at Rockview.

Despite the rigid police secrecy, reporters managed to enter the jail as Young was taken out to a waiting car. One newspaperman asked if he had any statement.

Young, tieless and haggard, flung his overcoat over his head and passed through the rain to the police car. He mumbled something but made no intelligible reply.

Jail officials said that Young, a quiet, well-regarded bachelor, had refused breakfast. He was smoking a cigarette when hustled out by the police.

Regardless of how long the troopers plan to hold Young without filing formal charges, Private James Griffith made it clear that in the interim he would be held incommunicado.

"We're not going to let him get a lawyer until we're ready," said Griffith, when asked if the suspect had requested counsel or would be permitted an attorney.

Griffith also contended that (Continued on Page Eight)

STATE COURT TOURNEY MAY BE TRANSFERRED

COLUMBUS, March 30—Awarding of the American Bowling Congress to Columbus for 1942 made it virtually certain today that the annual state high school basketball tournament would be transferred that year to either Dayton or Cleveland.

Earlier in the week, High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend said it would be impossible to stage the cage classic in Columbus if the ABC was here at the same time. The bowling congress will be held in the Coliseum, the site of the tournament each year.

Townsend said he had been in touch with officials of the Cleveland arena as well as backers of a new sports arena in Dayton.

Earl Griffith, State Secretary, Dies At 52 Following Heart Attack

Friends Shocked By News Of Passing Of Widely Known Republican; Operated Newspaper In Mount Gilead, O.

COLUMBUS, March 30—Stricken with a heart attack several days ago, Secretary of State Earl Griffith died in White Cross Hospital today.

His death was unexpected and a distinct shock as bulletins from the bedside for the last two days indicated the secretary was progressing satisfactorily in his fight for life.

Griffith, 52, was a native of Centerburg, O., but at the time of his death was a resident of Mt. Gilead where he was postmaster from 1928-34.

Under Ohio statutes, Griffith's successor, to serve out his unexpired term, will be appointed by Gov. John W. Bricker.

The governor was out of the city today and could not be reached for immediate comment as to when he might appoint a successor. It was assumed, however, by attaches in the governor's office, that Bricker would attend funeral services in Mt. Gilead at 2:30 p. m. Monday.

Griffith was elected to office in the Republican landslide of 1936. Previous to that time, he had never held an elective office, although he had been prominent in Morrow County politics.

He was a candidate for renomination at the May primaries and was opposed on the Republican ticket only by Edward J. Hummel, of Cincinnati. There are six men seeking the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

Quiet but affable, Griffith was well liked in the state house. He went about his official duties with a firm resolve to administer his office impartially. During his term in office, Ohio election troubles were kept at a minimum.

His biggest job since he took over the office was to fire every member of the Pike County election board after an intense investigation into alleged irregularities in that county.

Griffith attended Ohio Wesleyan University in 1906, 1907 and 1908. At the time of his death he was publisher of the Morrow County Sentinel.

In his home community he was a member of the Episcopal Church, the Elks, the Kiwanis Club, and numerous Masonic groups. He was also a member of Delta Tau Delta, a college fraternity.

He is survived by Mrs. Griffith and three children, Mary Jane, 20, Ruth, 18, and Earl Terry, 16.

EXAMINER FINDS RELIEF ACCOUNT IN COUNTY OKEH

The slim hopes of some members of Circleville council that there might be a relief fund balance in the county auditor's office in favor of the city were blasted Friday afternoon when O. P. Van Schoik, chief examiner in the office of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, checked records of all incoming funds earmarked for relief and found that all money had been properly used.

Van Schoik considered beer, mail and admissions and public utility tax accounts which are earmarked for relief and declared that prior to July 1, 1939 these receipts had all gone into a county relief fund with no breakdown being made of city and county share because no division was necessary according to law. Since that date all money has continued to go into a single fund, since a contract was approved at that time.

Souritz Starts Tour To Moscow; Ship Transfer Action Noted

PARIS, March 30—President Albert Lebrun today presided over an extraordinary meeting of the French war cabinet committee as increasing reports hinted the Allies are about to take a decisive step in the war to crush Germany.

The committee session, held in the Elysee Palace, was considered most significant since it follows by only 48 hours a meeting of the Allied supreme war council in London.

Before the cabinet group met, War Minister Edouard Daladier conferred at length with the key commanders of the French war machine—General Gustav Gamelin, allied commander-in-chief; General Joseph Veuillemin, French air force chief, and Admiral Francois Darlan, naval commander.

The important round of talks took place while Paris was agog over the sudden, secret departure last night of Soviet Ambassador Jacob Souritz. The envoy's leave-taking even surprised the French foreign office.

Souritz was recalled from his post at the request of the French government, which branded him "persona non grata" because he composed a telegram to Josef Stalin calling the Allies "war instigators."

Ships Given To French

He left the French capital last night on the heels of a British announcement that France had been given custody of two Russian freighters in Far Eastern waters allegedly laden with contraband cargoes.

The British move was welcomed by the French press as evidence of stronger Allied action against a nation which the semi-official newspaper Le Temps called "a friend of Hitler and an enemy of France."

(Britain was far more cautious in disclosing its action regarding the two Soviet freighters, the Vladimir Mayakovsky and the Selenga. Explaining the transfer, the British said the French navy "had more bases in the Pacific." When the Russian ships reach one of these, the examination for contraband will be continued.)

The Soviet ships, expected to be taken from Hong Kong to Hanoi, or another French Indo-Chinese port, are carrying metals such as antimony, tungsten and manganese, all vital in arms and munitions manufacturing.

The French press continued pressing for more vigorous action against Soviet Russia. Premier Reynaud, in a scheduled broadcast tonight, possibly may dwell on Franco-Russian relations.

Only 11,628 See Fight Dubbed As Worst In Years; Des Moines Boxer On Verge Of Hysteria Prior To Opening Round

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, March 30—Another knockout in the seemingly endless string credited to Joe Louis was duly recorded for pugilistic posterity today—

But the story of this one must be the story of a man who died a thousand deaths while waiting for nothing more painful than acute unconsciousness and chronic oblivion, the malady visited on Johnny Paychek last night in one of the poorest world heavyweight championship fights in the history of the ring. Branded a fiasco in advance, the bout attracted only 11,628 spectators and a gross gate of $62,481, but at that received more support than it deserved, considering that Paychek seemed on the verge of hysteria until finally he mercifully was laid away in 44 seconds of the second round.

Few fighters ever showed less courage than he. Paychek was stricken by the palsy of fear even before he entered the ring, and while he sat there waiting to be called to the center for instructions it seemed doubtful that he would hold together long enough to answer the opening gong.

Face Mask of Fear
Thus facing the most important moment of his pugilistic life—a chance for the world title—the prematurely bald Des Moines fighter with the book learning and neatly turned phrases was jitterbug from his waist down, his feet dancing a crazy, involuntary jig while he hunched over in his corner. His face was a taut, ashen mask of fear.

As he slithered from his corner to start the fight he knew what he was supposed to do, having heard it in the training camp from Benny Leonard, the great lightweight champion of another decade turned trainer for this special occasion. Paychek was expected to go into a half crouch and keep feinting and stepping back, then feint and step in and let fly with the right hand punch that had knocked out 23 of his last 33 opponents.

But the best he could do was feint and step back, almost always on the dead run in reverse, so shackled by his humiliating fear that he reverted to form and (Continued on Page Eight)

CHARLES SOBERS ABLE TO LEAVE BERGER HOSPITAL

Charles Sobers, injured early in February in the Kuhns residence explosion, has recovered sufficiently to be released next Monday from Berger Hospital, his physician said Saturday. Mr. Sobers, a salesman for Guy Pettit, was severely burned but has made an excellent recovery.

Mrs. Sobers, also burned seriously, is improving satisfactorily.

Mrs. Mary Kuhns and her daughter, Veronica, were killed in the explosion believed caused by gas from a bathroom heater that had been blown out.

CHURCH RITES TO AID WHITE CROSS HOSPITAL

$325,000 To Be Gathered From Congregations For Columbus Institution

The First Methodist Church of Circleville and the charge in other parts of the county have arranged special services for Sunday to aid in the celebration of "Hospital Sunday" which will take place in every Methodist Church in the Ohio Conference and participating districts of the North-East Ohio Conference.

The Rev. C. F. Bowman of the Circleville Methodist Church will use as his sermon theme "The Healing Ministry of the Church."

The special services throughout Ohio are being held in conjunction with the campaign to raise $325,000 for the White Cross Hospital. The goal of the campaign which opens April 1 has been proportioned throughout the Ohio Conference as follows: $225,000 from Columbus churches and civic-minded individuals; $100,000 from the remaining districts in the Ohio Conference and the two participating districts in the North-East Conference.

Regarding "Hospital Sunday," Bishop H. Lester Smith said, "White Cross hospital is one of the agencies whereby the Methodists in Ohio carry on the work of Christ in the ministry of healing. Our provisions to care of the sick and the helpless young and old show to the world that the church is interested in people—that it cares. Our hospitals and homes and other institutions provide for us the opportunities to give expression to our faith in living service. Our Master was accustomed to serve—and we are His followers."

Bishop Smith added, "We are proud to claim White Cross hospital as a part of our church program. The conference holds title to the hospital property and we recognize our obligation to cooperate in its maintenance."

"I am confident that every Methodist in the Ohio Conference and the participating districts of the North-East Ohio Conference will be glad to have a share in the campaign to help lift the indebtedness from White Cross hospital," the Bishop concluded.

The $325,000 will be used by the board of trustees of the hospital to retire current outstanding indebtedness; payments upon which the hospital is unable to meet this year.

EMPHASIS ON SERVICES STRESSED AFTER LENT

The period between Easter and Pentecost will be marked in the Evangelical Church by a special emphasis on the Holy Spirit and His work. A part of this time will be given to a special series of Evangelistic services. From March 31—April 14 there will be services conducted each evening at 7:30. These services will be preceded at 7:00 each evening by a period of prayer in the prayer room of the Church.

The Rev. Edward T. Shepherd of Johnsville, Ohio has been engaged as Pastor-Evangelist for this series and will bring the gospel message each evening. The special music will be under the direction of the Young people of the Church.

Marajo Island, at the mouth of the Amazon river, is as large as Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island combined.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES,
O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: I have a trellis in the shape of an arch about seven feet high. Is there a climbing evergreen that would provide a dense foliage for this? If so, will it thrive here in Ohio?

ANSWER: You will find that any of the forms of the wintercreeper will give you a satisfactory evergreen vine for your arch. Of the three forms, Euonymus radicans, E. radicans vegetus, and E. radicans coloratus, I believe you will find the last one will be the fastest growing but the vegetus variety will provide the best effect.

QUESTION: How far back and when do you prune rose bushes of the monthly variety? How can I get results in growing these?

ANSWER: You will find complete instructions for the pruning and culture of garden roses in our bulletin Garden Roses, which you may obtain from your county agricultural agent.

QUESTION: I have an annual blooming rose bush that has been covered with a white substance for several years. Although I have cut it back to the ground two or three times, the new growth becomes affected. Is there anything I can do to overcome this or should I dig it up and destroy it?

ANSWER: You will find that almost all roses are susceptible to this same difficulty which is a fungus disease or mildew. Some of the older varieties such as Dorothy Perkins are particularly susceptible. It can easily be prevented by dusting or spraying with sulphur previous to its appearance each year.

QUESTION: I would like to write to Bessie Buxton in regard to her book on begonias. Will you please tell me where I can reach her?

ANSWER: Mrs. Buxton's address is Peabody, Massachusetts.

QUESTION: I have a lattice on both sides of my garage entrance which I wish to plant with a hardy flowering vine which dies to the ground each year and comes up anew from the roots, rather than one whose woody stems remain from year to year, leaving out with the return of spring. Will any of the large flowering clematis answer my desire? If not, will you kindly recommend some vines that will answer the above descriptions?

ANSWER: You will find that any of the hardy forms of clematis, although normally the tops remain over winter, can be cut to the ground and allowed to grow up anew each year. For this purpose I would particularly recommend Clematis paniculata, C. coccinea, and C. montana. You will find these are hardier and more vigorous than the larger-flowered types such as henryi, jackmanni, Mme. Andre, and Ramona. If you wished a distinctly herbaceous vine, I would suggest that you try the cup and saucer vine, Cobaea scandens, or the Kudzu vine. You would also get very satisfactory results from using some of the annual vines which can be grown from seed each year such as the scarlet runner bean, hyacinth bean, var. Darkness, or some of the morning glories.

QUESTION: Is it true that it is necessary to have ants on the buds of your peonies in order for them to bloom properly?

ANSWER: I am glad to say it is not necessary. The ants are usually there eating the sticky substance covering the buds. But since ants usually carry plant lice from one part of the garden to another and from one plant to another, it is usually well to eradicate them whenever possible in the garden. Incidentally, you will find complete recommendations for this in our bulletin on the control of garden insects and diseases which you may obtain from your county agricultural agent.

QUESTION: I am having difficulty growing grass in the parking between the curb and the sidewalk because of two large shade trees that are growing in it. Would there be any shade grass that would be satisfactory or would you recommend some other treatment?

ANSWER: I personally feel it would be much more satisfactory if you used some of the grass substitutes in place of even shade grass. Since it is shady, may I suggest you use English ivy and by the way, the form sold as a self-branching house plant works very nicely for this purpose. You might also use the periwinkle or Vinca or if you prefer something that is not evergreen you might use Ajuga or maiden pink, Dianthus deltoideus.

For Saturday, March 30

A DAY in which very definite progress is to be made in the way of stabilizing the affairs and marching on to security and success is indicated by the lunar aspects as well as mutual configurations. The latter suggest the employment of tact, diplomacy, strategy and intrigue rather than open and direct methods and techniques. This is due to the possibility of the opposition of those in power and authority. In all, industry, perseverance, steadfastness, sound ideas and practical programs are assured enduring results.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of opportunity for putting the affairs and the fortunes on a solid foundation, with perseverance, application, fidelity, sound plans and workable projects winning against possible opposition from superiors, employers or others whose support is desired. Strategy, cleverness, intrigue or subtlety are factors for enduring success and security.

A child born on this day may have all the solid and practical arts and skills and realize attainment of sound aims and ends by strategy, tact and diplomacy. Elders may be generous with gifts, bequests of other benefactors.

THE AUTO STIMULUS

THE new cars come out, and now business begins to turn up again. It has to. Have people ever fully appreciated what the automobile does for this country? It isn't only providing transportation, and thereby creating a demand for goods and making people travel and binding the nation together and bringing life into long isolated communities. It isn't only providing jobs for all the people who make cars and parts and the people who sell cars and service. It serves as a perennial stimulus to keep people from stagnating.

They look at the new cars and a "divine discontent" comes over them. The little old bus that was all right yesterday, and good for a couple of years more, doesn't look so good now. The finish, the style, the nifty gadgets of these models catch the eye and begin taking hold of the soul as they are meant to do. And the looker is lost. He has to start working harder, or get himself a better job, so he can afford to buy one. There is no greater stimulus to economic effort and ambition.

There's another side to it, though. Some other forms of investment probably suffer from this dazzling competition. Housing, for instance. Millions more might own their homes, or build new ones, if the autos were not so alluring. And maybe the answer to that is to make both cars and houses still more attractive.

FLATTENING OUT

WAREHOUSES are said to be going flat now, spreading out one-story instead of building up into the air as the tendency has been for many years. Sears, Roebuck is said to be setting the style, but many others seem to be doing it. And not for storage only, but for retail stores.

Larger lots, of course, are needed in this way, but land is cheaper now and not so big a factor. The chief reason, though, for the single-story trend is mechanical. Warehouse elevators are said to be "bottlenecks" and there is a similar tendency in the elevators of stores with multiple floors.

It makes a person wonder whether dwellings will follow the same pattern now. There does seem to be a tendency to build homes somewhat lower. You don't see third stories much any more. The two-stories snuggle closer to the ground, and artistic, rambling single-stories are probably increasing.

The new spring offensive that Europe seems to be expecting may not be any more offensive than spring has been already.

You might think, from these census questions, that the fellow asking 'em was selling you a radio on the installment plan.

Lucky Canadians! Their national election is behind them.

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up and soon away to face the day's stint, heading for the pest with ear windows down and face aglaze at the absence of snow and cold. Learned that Uncle Sam had worked very little for me over the night, so rolled to the plant, there to find a broken machine and slowed production. Machines are not unlike men, they have sick spells, too.

Visited the Coffee Club and there learned that Fred Wittich had rushed the fishing season again, this time returning to the village with five nice bass, the limit. Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO HINCKLEY

WASHINGTON—The story has been told how at 4 o'clock last Tuesday morning, while European aviation was chalking up new records for death and destruction, the far-flung airlines of the U. S. set a different kind of record—one full year of operation without a single fatality or serious injury.

A number of factors have deservedly been given credit for this historic achievement: better planes, better personnel, better airports and radio facilities. There also was one other that played a leading part in the spectacular holiday from death—a man who eats, drinks and sleeps aviation.

He is Robert H. Hinckley, the quiet-mannered, indefatigable chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, to whom air safety records are an old passion.

Twelve years ago, long before there was anything even resembling the CAA and when almost every passenger plane that took off flirted with death, Hinckley organized the Utah-Pacific Airways. Its route was over some of the most treacherous flying terrain in the country—the Rockies. But in three years that he directed the line, it suffered not one fatal mishap.

It's not strange that only a few know this. There are many things about the tall, handsome Utahian, who will be 50 in June, that even his best friends don't know. He is that kind of man. Publicity is not his forte. But doing outstanding jobs definitely is. In his retiring, genial way he has been doing them all his life.

PILGRIM DESCENDANT

Bob Hinckley is one of the most unusual men in Washington. He is a Pilgrim descendant, a one-time missionary, a highly successful business man, one of the most brilliant executives in the Government, and an ardent New Dealer.

One of the things that few know about him is that he has a jail record. Hinckley is proud of it. It happened when he was seriously considering becoming a different kind of "sky pilot."

In his veins flows the blood of a long line of religious ancestors. One of them was Thomas Hinckley, Puritan governor of the Plymouth colony from 1681 to 1692. Another was Hinckley's grandfather, Ira Hinckley, who accompanied Brigham Young to Utah and became a pillar of the Mormon Church.

The religious zeal of his forebears burned bright in young Bob. At the age of 19 he gave up his studies at Brigham Young University and accepted a call as a Mormon missionary in Europe. Most of his three years was spent in Germany, where he had two experiences that greatly influenced his later life.

One, in 1913, was his first airplane flight, with Melli Beese, famous pioneer aviatrix. The other was the interlude in the cooler.

Hinckley was arrested by German authorities for spreading the Mormon gospel. The Kaiser's police were outraged that a foreigner should be doing missionary work in the Reich and they jailed young Hinckley on a charge of "disturbing the peace." After a few days he was released on condition that he leave the country.

DIET AND HEALTH

Forces Mobilized in War on Cancer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

APRIL is Cancer Control Month as provided by Congress. In 46 states the Women's Field Army Against Cancer is conducting an active educational program.

Not very long ago cancer was a taboo topic. Everyone knew it existed and nobody dared mention it. Even now it is considered an unpleasant word. But the fact that it is an unwelcome or disagreeable subject does not cancel the obligation of the writer on public health to discuss it.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The dangers which are present for the speaker or writer before the public on the subject are, first, that he will make it disgusting and, second, that he will create unnecessary fear.

Needn't Be Present

The first danger need never be present. Cancer is a clean disease and not disgusting; in fact, one of the points in the fight against it is that it is so unobtrusive, it makes itself known so little, that the early stages are liable to be passed before anything is done.

As for the second danger, that of creating unnecessary fear, time has moved on so that we do not feel that way any more. There is something to be done for cancer and the earlier it is done, the more effective it is. So we feel in drawing attention to cancer—its danger and its symptoms—we are not idly or unnecessarily frightening you, because we have something concrete and constructive to offer in the way of cure, which was not true a few decades ago.

I like the distinction that has been made between a health article that, instead of "scaring you to death," "scares you to life." If you are scared to the extent that you have something done to save your life, it is a good thing to scare you a little.

Hopeful Example

A hopeful example exists in the Cured Cancer Club, sponsored by Dr. Anna C. Palmer, of Milton, Massachusetts, who herself was operated on for cancer in 1920. There were 29,195 people listed by the American College of Surgeons in 1938 as cured of cancer. There must be many more.

The Cured Cancer Club is open to anyone who is vouched for by his physician as having been cured of cancer for at least five years. The applicant need only subscribe to the statement, "I am willing to be known publicly as a cured cancer patient."

This column will discuss one of the phases of cancer once a week during the month of April. I do not want to make the subject oppressive but feel that it is my duty to bring good news from the fighting front of cancer control.

To aid in cancer control, educational pamphlets on "The Fight of the Women's Field Army Against Cancer" and "What to Know—What to Do About Cancer" are distributed by the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 350 Madison Avenue, New York City, and may be obtained for ten cents apiece.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. C. R.: "I have read that when horses are killed to obtain glandular extracts for medicinal purposes, the rest of the meat of the animal is used to make dog meat, and some of the choice cuts are used for humans. Horse meat, I hear, is high in vitamins and perfectly fit for human consumption. Is such a thing possible?"

Answer: Horses are not used for glandular extracts. Plenty of glands are obtained from the carcasses of other animals at the packing houses. In France horse meat is a common food, and special butcher shops—Boucherie de cheval—are common. I have eaten horse meat and found it palatable, more so than venison. I do not know that it contains any more vitamins than other meats.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Infant Feeding," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

DEPENDABLE and trustworthy as a bridge star's wife may be most of the time, the bridge table is no place to trust her, if she is a keen competitor and is playing against him. Then is the time that some of the nicest ladies pick out crucial spots to underlead aces and resort to other nefarious devices which enable them to laugh weeks afterward about how they got even for various things the husbands had done.

Here's a much more interesting item from the publication: Lieutenant James Pike, First United States Cavalry, was shot and wounded on the fifth of October near Camp Logan, Oregon, and died from the effects thereof on the 14th of October. He was in command of a squad pursuing Indians and upon discovering them charged with a yell and fired. The Indians fled, one of them dropping his rifle. Pike picked up the rifle and struck it against a rock to render it useless, when it discharged, the ball entering his thigh. Lieutenant Pike was the son of Col. Samuel Pike, of Hillsboro, and will be remembered as Corporal Pike who distinguished himself as a soldier and scout in the late war.

Very strong No Trumps when vulnerable, with only 4-3-3-3 distributions, were used by North and South on this rubber deal. Others who use weaker No Trumps would have started with 2-2-3-3, South bidding 3-Spades, North 3-No Trumps and South 4-Spades.

One of our outstanding experts, who wants his name withheld, was declarer, and his wife led the heart

5. Expecting East to have the A but possibly not the Q, he ducked, and the Q won. A heart was returned to the A and a third round ruffed. South then led the spade 2. When she played the 6, he guessed her for possibly the J but not the K, so played dummy's 10, the singleton J winning. Later, of course, he lost the setting trick to the spade K.

Her low heart lead really gave him a chance to make 6-Spades. If he came up with the K, then ran three diamonds, discarding a heart, following with the spade A and another to the Q, he would have lost only to the spade K. With normal defense and play, he would have lost only one trick in each major, making five-odd. And here he was set by his own wife.

THE KILLER SPEAKS

RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY

"WHAT IS this important clue you've uncovered?" I asked the reporter as he signaled a taxicab.

"I searched the river with the Markham motor boat yesterday," he explained, "and after I had gone downstream for miles without finding your boat I began to wonder if someone hadn't picked it up."

"My boat?"

"Sure! The rowboat in which you got away from that kidnaper. You turned it upside down and it was full of bullet holes, but it couldn't sink. It was made of wood. And it was pretty sure the kidnaper wouldn't go after it, because it was in midstream—he might have to follow it for miles."

"But what could you tell from a rowboat?"

He gave directions to the taxi driver as we climbed in, then continued, "There'd been no report to the police, and none of the offices of the water transportation companies had a report of an overturned rowboat being picked up by any of the employees. I was about ready to give up when I saw this old man with his covered wagon. He was camped at the edge of the river, below the Rio Vista club and just above town, on the opposite side."

"And he had the boat?"

"Right. He wouldn't say so, right off. He gave me a kind of funny answer, until I told him I'd give a reward for the boat. It was inside his wagon. I guess he figured on selling it, though it wasn't worth very much with those bullet holes in it. I tied it behind my boat and towed it upstream. Then I beached it and cut out the piece of wood where one of the bullets had lodged. I took the piece to a ballistics expert. He's taking the bullet out and studying it. If our luck holds, we'll find out what gun fired that bullet, and through the gun we'll uncover the owner."

"Belzer, you're a genius."

"Call me 'Scoop,' he said modestly."

Our cab was following the road toward the river, north of the Rio Vista club. We stopped near a farmhouse I remembered from the preceding day. "Scoop," Belzer paid the driver as we got out, and explained in an aside to me, "It goes on my expense account."

We descended the path to the river. The Markham motor boat was moored there, waiting for us. Belzer pulled one of the small, vital parts of the magneto from his pocket and put it in place. "Better than a lock," he remarked. "No body can run the boat without it."

For ten minutes it seemed that Belzer could not even run the boat with it, but the engine finally started. We swung out into deep water and headed upstream. The river was smooth. Sunlight had long since dispelled the fog. I breathed deeply of the fresh air. There's something about the water—"I started to remark."

"Yeah, I know," said my companion. "Keep your eyes peeled. What we're looking for now is the warehouse where you were kept prisoner."

"The only thing I remember about it was a few trees overhead, and the fact that the boat was a 'go in under the pillar'."

"Among the piling," he corrected me, "and it couldn't have been

"Look like the place?" Belzer whispered.

far upstream, could it?"

"No, not far."

There weren't many places to choose from. A dirty red structure with a faded sign that read "Bream Bros." seemed the most likely. Belzer swung the boat around and drifted downstream toward it with the motor shut off. A building extended out into the water, but the water was not deep enough among the piles to float a rowboat.

"There was a high tide Tuesday night and another yesterday morning," Belzer whispered. "The water would have been a couple of feet deeper. Look like the place?"

"Ye-es, I believe it is. What do we do next?"

"We'll get inside."

He swung the boat inshore a hundred yards downstream. "That outfit sells potatoes," he told me. "Know anything about potatoes?"

I shook my head.

"Good. Just keep quiet. I'll be the potato buyer." He jumped ashore and tied the boat. I followed him up the bank and back along the road to the warehouse.

A not-too-bright appearing young man in dirty overalls was mending sacks on the warehouse platform. He looked up without much interest.

"Is this the Bream Bros. warehouse?" Belzer asked, and on receiving a nod, added, "We understand you've got some pretty nice spuds here."

"Guess so," said the young man. "Boss is away. You wanta look at 'em?"

"That's the general idea."

The young man stretched his legs and got up. "Ain't so much here now. Business been bad." He unlocked the door and preceded us inside.

It was the place, all right. I recognized it by the odor, even before I identified the windows. I gave Belzer a nod when he threw me an inquiring glance.

"Not very much on hand," Belzer agreed with our guide. "Anything down stairs?"

"Naw. Ain't been anything down there for years. We quit usin'

boats. Trucks are cheaper."

"You mean there's no way to get to the lower floor except by the boat landing?"

"That's right. But there ain't no boat landing. It washed away in the big flood six years ago."

The reporter was feeling some of the potatoes in open sacks. "I'm afraid these aren't quite what I want," he said. "Maybe we can do some business, though. I've got some friends who are talking about starting a boat club. Think we could rent the lower floor of this warehouse?"

"Don't see why not. Boss never uses it. But it's awful dirty."

"Mind if I take a look?" Belzer asked, pausing at the head of the stairs, "while you show my friend some of your onions?"

"Go ahead," said the young man. He turned to me. "What kind of onions?"

"Why—oh—some kind for cooking."

It was a very uncomfortable ten minutes for me before Belzer returned from downstairs. I learned considerable about onions from this young man, whose mentality I seemed to have underestimated.

Belzer was frowning when he climbed back up the stairs. "You're right, it's dirty. And no plumbing down there. I was expecting too much. When will you have more potatoes on hand?"

"We're expecting more early next week."

"Good. I'll be back." He grasped my arm and guided me toward the door.

"I'll load your sack of onions for you," the young man offered.

Belzer gave me a queer look, but after the young man carried the sack down to our boat the reporter paid the bill. "Another item for the expense account, I suppose," he mumbled as he cranked the engine.

"What did you learn?"

"Plenty! I've found the headquarters of the gang involved with the Rio Vista club. I've been looking for it for a long time."

Today's Horoscope

No need for those celebrating their birthdays on this date to worry for the next twelve months, as they will benefit through elders and through slow steady, sure gains. They are warned not to change their employment, however. If born today a child will be practical, ambitious and aspiring, but somewhat self-centered and intolerant of others. Gain through real estate is probable.

Horoscope for Sunday

Gain will come to those whose birthdays are today through strangers, new contacts and novel methods. Their businesses will prosper exceedingly, and a year of excellent progress is foreseen. The child born today will be very clever, original, of profound understanding and far-seeing. Such a one will be inclined, however, to attach too much importance to worldly goods.

SR. SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS OFFERED TO 15 STUDENTS

This morning at 9:00 at the high school building, the eleventh annual General Scholarship Test for high school seniors was administered to a group of Pickaway County seniors. This test is given yearly by the State Department of Education. In Pickaway County the test is given under the direction of a special committee, of which George D. McDowell is chairman.

Five separate tests of one-half hour each were given, covering fundamental principles of mathematics, English, history, science and reading.

Any student in the upper forty percent of his graduating class was eligible, and other seniors participated upon recommendation of their principals.

Numerous award certificates will be presented to high ranking students. A county certificate of award will be presented to those who place in the first ten in each of the counties. All others in the upper 25 percent of the group will receive honorable mention certificates.

Additional certificates will be presented to those who rank highest in each of the five districts of the state. Finally, each of the twenty-five girls and twenty-five boys who rank high in the state will receive state certificates of award. All additional students who place in the highest five percent of the state will receive honorable mention certificates.

Scholarships of varying worth are granted by many Ohio colleges and out-of-state colleges to those who rank high in this test.

Circleville seniors who took the test are Robert Brehmer, Eleanor Brown, David Eagleson, Margaret Good, Hulise Hays, Jr., David Hilyard, Gale Hitchcock, Mary Louise Cuth, Goldie Isaac, Marilyn Lutz, Bill Lutz, Pat Mogan, Howard Orr, Jane Paul and Regina Thornton.

"Live Snakes of the World" was the topic of the demonstration given by Unit 27 of the United States Society of Zoology, Friday, March 29.

The purpose of the society is to increase interest in natural history. In this exhibition were the following reptiles: yellow anaconda, blue racer, American coachwhip, indigo snake, yellow bull and the king snake. All the snakes on display were alive.

Kindness in dealing with pets and wild animals was one of the main-points stressed by this company. The preliminary training and the care of pets and wild animals was explained.

ZOOLOGICAL UNIT GIVES PROGRAM

Each teacher received last week from the principal's office a pamphlet entitled "Are Your Pupils Ready for the Coming of the Census Man?" This material was prepared and distributed by the U. S. Department of Commerce in Washington.

Included in the subject matter is a brief statement of the origin of census taking in the United States, the expansion of the undertaking. Reasons for the type of questions asked each person and lastly, an appeal to each pupil to do his part as a future citizen in explaining the procedure to any one who does not understand either the method or the purpose of census taking.

Principal J. Wray Henry requested that each high school teacher thoroughly explain this important function to the pupils in each class and to answer any questions which might arise.

SPRING IS HERE OR IS IT?

Too many days ago when it was so nice and warm outside, everyone perked up and things seemed rosy again. Our home work was one hundred per cent easier and for some reason or other our troubles seemed suddenly to have disappeared. But after Spring made its formal debut on March twentieth, we have seen nothing but cold dreary weather and I fear that we have spilled back into our old rut again with bad dispositions and quick temper.

Even though the weather is the most disagreeable we can imagine, that is no reason why we should not try to make the best of it and remember that our lessons must be prepared. Else when that dreaded Wednesday, which comes around every six weeks, dawns even the most beautiful, bright, sunny day can not save us from the doom which is sure to follow the failure to get home work.

We all hope that this March weather will soon cease and that April will bring fair weather and plenty of it. We are all anxious to get started practicing up on our favorite summer sports—golf, tennis, archery, and many others.

C. H. S. DEBATORS TIE FOR SECOND

Wednesday, a bulletin from the Ohio Speech League disclosed that Circleville is in a three-way tie for second place in District One of debate competition.

Newark, one of Circleville's opponents, won the undisputed place of first with a record of four wins. Circleville, Columbus East and Springfield are listed second with two wins and two losses.

Columbus West and Washington C. H. bring up the rear with one win and three losses.

Debates this year "started from scratch" and after intensive study they began competition with class A teams. Samuel R. Johnson, debate coach, has stated that he is very pleased with the outcome of the "39-40" debate season and also that next year's season offers many good prospects with a complete squad of experienced debaters.

William Burget, Lloyd Jones, Leland Siegwald and Paul Turner represented Circleville in this year's league competition. These boys who are now sophomores and juniors all plan to be out for this activity next year.

JR. CAST OF 17 IN PRODUCTION MARCH 28 AND 29

A group of juniors made their stage debuts before the Circleville public on Thursday and Friday evenings. This class's presentation was "June Mad," a comedy in three acts by Colin Clemons and Florence Ryerson. It was presented by special arrangement with Samuel French.

Samuel R. Johnson, who coached the cast, was presented with a gift from the junior class on Friday night.

All of those juniors who worked to help put on this play are listed below.

Cast
Penny Wood, March 28, Norma Jean Brown; March 29, Rose Ann Griner.

Chuck Harris, March 28, James Callahan; March 29, Lloyd Jones, Jr.

Mrs. Wood, March 28, Marjorie Fricee; March 29, Mary Kathryn Pile.

Elmer Tuttle, William Thornton.

Roger Van Vleck, Paul Turner. Mr. Harris, March 28, George Skaggs; March 29, Jack Beck.

Because the programs were printed before final arrangements for the play were made, a complete list of persons contributing properties did not appear there. For their co-operation and readiness to help them in this project, the junior class wishes to express their appreciation to these people: Mrs. Emmitt Crist, Mrs. Charles Caskey, Mrs. Lawrence Goeller, Mrs. Russell Imler, Harry Bartholomew, Mrs. Wilbur Funk, Mrs. William Thornton, Mrs. John Goodchild, Mrs. Max Friedman, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Zelma Skinner, Mrs. Charles Owens, Mrs. Mason Young and Mrs. Ren Mumaw.

Misses Margaret Boggs, Betty Cooper, Jane Klingensmith and Betty Sapp.

Dr. E. L. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Hildeburn Martin, Joseph Lynch and Loren Pace.

Brehmer's Greenhouse, Citizens Telephone Co., Griffith and Martin and Lutz and Yates.

They also wish to thank the high school orchestra for their music between acts; Mrs. Joseph Bell, who assisted Mrs. Johnson with make-up; Charlie Zaenglein for taking pictures of the cast; and the faculty for their relinquishing those associated with the play's production from classes.

Shirley Wentworth, Helen Beck, Ralph Wentworth, March 28, Lloyd Jones, Jr.; March 29, James Callahan.

Julie Harris, March 28, Doris Waters; March 29, Mary Adele Snider.

CLUB MEMBERS PLAN FOR DANCE

Stooge President Howard Orr opened the meeting Tuesday evening by taking a check on dance tickets. Club members have been busy preparing for the annual Stooge dance, which will be held in the Memorial Hall on April 5. Admission is $1.50 per couple; dancing is from 8:30 to 12:00. Bill Kessler's orchestra will furnish the music, and the affair is to be informal.

At this meeting Fred Watts, science instructor of C. H. S. acted as adviser in the absence of Virgil Cress.

Because of Junior Class play practice many members were absent from the meeting held at the home of William Burget.

EITEL FUNERAL RITES TO BE MONDAY AT 2 P. M.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. G. L. Troutman officiating, for Mrs. Carrie May Eitel, widow of John Eitel, who died Friday. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery by the Mader Service, the following to act as pallbearers, Walter Bumgarner, V. Klingensmith, Milton Manson, Herbert Melvin, George Green and Roy Hawks.

Friends may call at the home of Charles Eitel, 517 North Pickaway Street.

Mrs. Eitel was born November 8, 1870, a daughter of Thomas and Ellen Trisch Aumock. Surviving are the following children, George of Circleville Township; Mary Young of Millford, Ind.; Elizabeth Eccard of Circleville Township; Mrs. Nellie Bumgarner of Madison Township; John Eitel of Fairfield County; Daniel D. Eitel and Charles Eitel of Circleville; a brother, W. E. Aumock of Lancaster; a sister, Mrs. Flora Courtney of Zanesville, 26 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Turning in the first alley east of Court on Watt Street, the car operated by Jane Colville and a truck driven by William Teets, Elm Avenue, collided. Teets was driving behind Miss Colville going in a westerly direction. Not expecting her to turn, he couldn't swerve his truck in time to avoid hitting her as she slowed down. The left rear bumper of the Colville car and a front fender and tire on the truck were damaged in the collision. Neither driver was hurt.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 30 — George Downes, Ohio State University heavyweight, today held two victories in the National Collegiate wrestling championships. He gained decisions over George Chiga, Oklahoma A. and M., and Howard Buck, Iowa State, to enter the semi-finals.

FRANKFORT MAN CITED
Shirley Lee Deen, 31, Frankfort, was arrested at 12:30 a. m. Saturday and charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. Charges of operating the car with fictitious license plates may also be placed against him. He will face a hearing in Mayor Cady's court Saturday afternoon.

WORKER SHORTAGE CITED
CHILLICOTHE, March 30—A fear of a shortage of enumerators for the census when the job starts next Tuesday was expressed by Herbert Mattox, district census supervisor. Mattox says the job isn't nearly as complicated as it looks on paper since one glance at the instructions has frightened many out of the jobs.

IN 1886 city council of Deland, Fla., adopted an ordinance allowing a rebate on taxes in the amount of 50 cents for every tree two inches or more in diameter planted by a land owner of the city. Trees were required to be one year old and healthy. The ordinance was later repealed but Deland is now noted for its many beautiful moss-covered oaks.

Half the United States supply of feldspar is said to be mined in North Carolina.

BRIEFS TO BE FILED IN WILKINSON-PARKS SUIT

Judge Meeker Terwilliger ordered attorneys in the cast of Lyman Wilkinson vs. Boyce Parks to file briefs by Saturday, April 6, following the hearing on the petition in Common Pleas Court.

Wilkinson, Center Alley, brought suit against Parks, North Pickaway Street, for damages and injuries sustained last August when the car Parks was driving on South Scioto Street struck him. He asks $500 damages.

The accident happened when Parks was backing up his parked car on South Scioto Street between Mill and Union and struck Wilkinson who passed behind the car as he was crossing the street.

Two milers, Chuck Fenske and Gene Venzke, are moving up and two 2-milers, Walter Mehl and Ralph Schwartzkof, are moving down to meet in the 1 1/2-mile run, and here we expect to see Fenske shave at least two seconds off the world record, 6:37.8, in winning this one.

We give the East a shade in the East-West mile relay but do not expect to see the world standard of 3:15.2 beaten but do expect to see an equivalent 3:19 on the small garden oval.

Then comes the big 3-mile finale with Taisto Maki, the flying Finn, trying to outrun Gregory Rice, Don Lash and Joe McCluskey. Contrary to Paavo Nurmi's opinion, we do not think Maki can run the finishing "kick" out of Rice and we, therefore, will string with the little Notre Dame runner.

COLUMBUS, March 30—Johnny Whitters, of Pontiac, Mich., who scored a victory over Lee Savold, of St. Louis, Thursday night, has been signed to meet Tiger Lou Flowers, of Cincinnati, in one of the bouts on Monday night's fistic card, it was announced today. THREE AUTOMOBILES DAMAGED IN EARLY MORNING COURT STREET CRASH

Jack Lane, Four Others Escape Without Injury In Mishap

What appeared like a game of billiards, substituting automobiles for balls with the cue ball fast asleep, was enacted early Saturday on North Court Street near High Street scattering the balls over the brick-paved table top.

Jack Lane, Half Avenue, was driving south on North Court Street, when, police said, he fell asleep at the wheel at 3:30 a. m. to provide the rambling cue ball. Lane's car careened to the wrong side of the street hitting the parked car of Robert Timmons, North Court Street, knocking it around so that it hit the parked car of Robert Greisheimer, North Court Street.

That only completed the first round of the damage. The Timmons car was struck a second time so that it was forced over the curb against a tree. It seemed that all that remained was that the Greisheimer car was to be struck by the Lane automobile.

After hitting the Timmons car for the second time, Lane's auto struck and then pushed the Greisheimer vehicle for about 20 feet before it came to a stop. The picture at the completion of the accident was the Timmons' automobile against a tree on the sidewalk and the Lane and Greisheimer automobiles snuggled against one another further south on Court Street.

All three were badly damaged. The entire front end of the Lane auto was smashed. Timmons' car was smashed across the whole length of the left side and similar damage was suffered by the Greisheimer automobile.

Riding with Lane were Charles Harlow and Ray Arledge, Clinton Street, and Vincent Reed, East Mound Street. None of the occupants of the automobile was injured.

time between the city and county wherein the county relief office continued to handle the city load. Declarations of several city officials at a recent meeting of council that they believed Circleville should have a balance to its credit were discounted by the examiner's finding. He came to Circleville at the request of the county commissioners who wished any question arising between the city and county concerning relief expenditures to be settled.

Claims of some of the officials that Circleville should have a larger share of public utility tax money because it contributes more to this account were blasted, too, when figures were compared. Of the county's public utility tax duplicate of $13,533,000, only $1,247,000 is in Circleville. This represents nine percent. Harrison Township, where the Picway Power Plant is located, has 36 percent of the total, $4,938,000.

During the first two months of 1940 the county was forced to go into its general fund to obtain money to pay its share of the relief cost. A bill for $2,020.47 has been presented to the city for its share, but no part of this amount has been paid.

TRUCKER, 22, CITED

Cecil Gaul, 22, Sumner, O., was arrested at 9:55 a. m. Saturday and charged with speeding. According to police, he drove his one and one-half ton truck carrying a load of six tons over the Norfolk and Western Railroad tracks on South Court Street at 42 miles per hour. A $10 cash bond was posted by Gaul pending a hearing in Mayor William Cady's court at 7 p. m. Saturday.

Patrolman Miller Fissell, in charge of traffic and motor vehicles, reported Saturday that he had cited four more drivers for parking on the wrong side of the street in violation of the new traffic ordinance that became effective last Saturday. Citations will continue, he warned, as long as drivers fail to heed the new regulation.

Finals in the ping pong tournament being conducted at the Circle Recreation parlors will be contested Monday at 8:30 p. m. Jack Simison and Harold Stone-rock will meet in singles, and these two youths will meet Ted Schmidt and Bob Currier in doubles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Leach, Northridge Road, have returned home after attending the Mid-Atlantic Winter Stake dog trials at Port Conley, W. Va. Dogs owned in Charleston, W. Va., and Cleveland won the winners' and runnersup stake.

Andrew U. Thomas, North Court Street, will be installed Tuesday evening as exalted ruler of the Circleville Lodge of Elks. He will succeed Paul D. Miller, Past Exalted Ruler Harry D. Jackson will serve as installing officer. The meeting begins at 8 o'clock with a buffet supper to be served after the ceremony.

Dr. Ovid Burt, 36, Londonderry, was stopped on South Court Street at midnight Friday and charged with speeding. He said that his haste was necessary because he was on a call. Police did not detain him, but cited him to appear in Mayor William Cady's court at noon Saturday.

Mrs. C. E. Little of South Pickaway Street, who is recovering at Grant Hospital, Columbus, after a major operation, will be removed Sunday to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Klauer, of Piqua. Master John Little, son of Mr. and Mrs. Little, is recovering at the Klauer home after an attack of influenza.

MADISON COUNTY OFFICIAL TO AIR PEN SHORTAGES

LONDON, March 30—If reported findings of shortages in the commissary accounts of the London Prison Farm are borne out by further investigation, the evidence will be presented to the Madison County grand jury which meets April 8, Prosecutor D. H. Jackson declared today.

Supt. W. F. Amrine reported yesterday that a state examiner's investigation had revealed an alleged $1,200 shortage in the commissary accounts, padded pay rolls and forged withdrawal slips. These accounts, Amrine said, were handled by convict clerks.

The findings reportedly covered a period before Amrine became superintendent of the institution last Sept. 5.

Evidence turned over to Jackson showed, according to Amrine, that prisoners employed in the chief clerk's office took money and charged it to the accounts of other convicts; that they received money from visiting relatives intended for other prisoners and failed to account for it; and that names of numerous innocent men were employed to cover up fictitious transactions.

ity in the Polish documents is contained in an alleged report of a conversation between Bullitt—debonair and wealthy young friend of the President—and Potocki. The Polish envoy allegedly reported to Warsaw that Bullitt told him the President had a deep hatred of the totalitarian states, that he was carrying out a huge armament program here and was prepared to support the Allies on the field of battle if they went to Poland's defense and later needed help.

Potocki, who earlier had visited the State Department to discuss the German charges with American officials, issued this statement by telephone from his embassy:

"The publication of the pretended documents is obviously for propaganda purposes. I deny the allegations attributed to my report. I never had a conversation with Ambassador Bullitt on America's participation in the war."

Hull Angered

The statements by Bullitt and Potocki were preceded by a formal denial from Hull. The secretary reportedly angry over the allegations made in Berlin, made the following statement at his office: "I may say most emphatically that neither I nor any of my associates in the Department of State have ever heard of any such conversations as those alleged, nor do we give them the slightest credence.

"The statements alleged have not represented in any way at any time the thought or the policy of the American government."

10-YEAR SEARCH FOR FUGITIVE, 45, COMES TO END

CHILLICOTHE, March 30—A 10-year search for Joseph Boyers, 45-year-old fugitive from the Michigan City, Ind., prison farm, who, since his escape, remarried and settled down, ended today with his arrest by Deputy Sheriff Don Lowery.

Boyers was apprehended in a Clarksburg garage where, though a quirk of fate, he had secured employment as a mechanic. Boyers was serving a one to five year term for chicken stealing when he walked away from the Indiana prison.

Shortly before Labor Day, 1938, officials traced Boyers to Portsmouth and prepared to arrest him there. But he was on a holiday trip. Driving near Clarksburg, he ran out of gas.

He made his way to a garage and offered to work in exchange for a tank of gas. He did the work so well he was offered a permanent job which he accepted.

Following that incident, he brought his wife, a Portsmouth girl, to Clarksburg along with a 16-year-old son by his first wife, now deceased. He never changed his name and made several trips to Indiana to visit relatives during the 10-year period.

PARKED CAR RIFLED OF NUMEROUS ACCESSORIES

O. C. King, Watt Street, reported to the police Saturday that his car was rifled Friday night as it was parked on East Corwin Street just off South Court Street.

Only the hubcaps were stripped off the car, but a flashlight, a gray-checked overcoat, driver's license and the bill of sale of the car were taken. The papers were in a small zipper brief case which was also part of the loot.

forgot the crouch, the punching and everything and left himself a wide open target. His hands were down, his chin was up and Louis knocked him down three times in the first round, twice for eight counts then for nine, only to see him saved by the bell for the finisher in the second.

Precise Right Does It

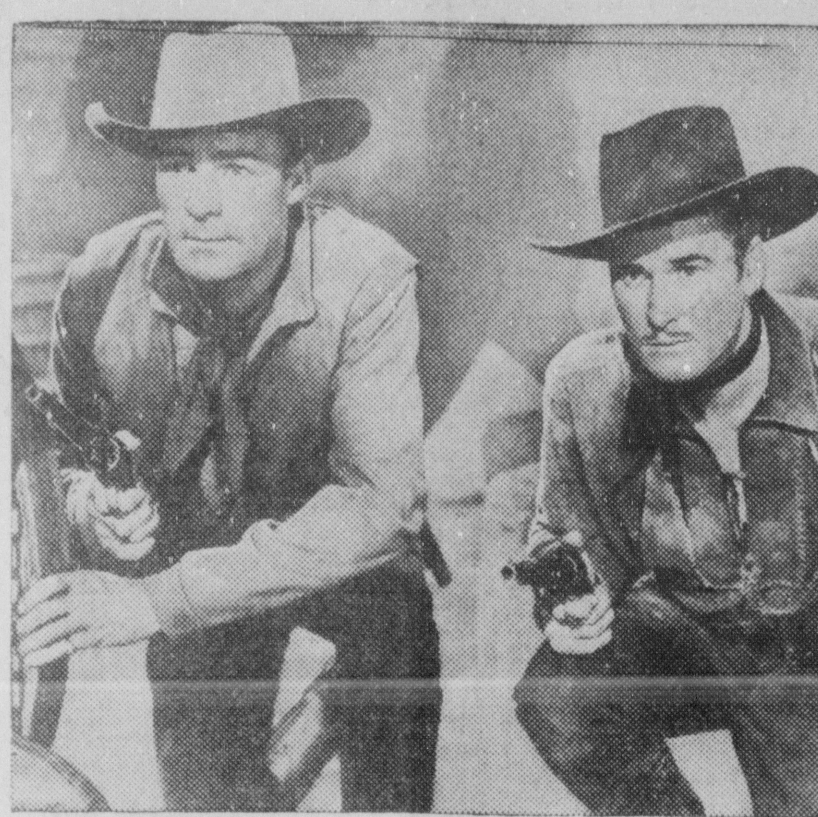

Paychek didn't know what struck him. Briefly, it was a right to the chin, timed so precisely and executed with such brilliant savagery that his head bounced and rolled when he toppled backward at full length. Referee Arthur Donovan perfunctorily signalled that the fight was over at the count of six, with Paychek's 187½ pounds stretched out, trying to arise but obviously through.

For Louis, who scaled 200½ pounds, it was his record-breaking 10th successful defense of the championship, and a comeback from his miserable showing against Arturo Godoy last month, but of no particular credit to him. He was a 10 to 1 favorite going into the ring strictly on the basis of Paychek being unable to fight physically. Had it been possible to foresee his emotional reaction Louis would have been 100 to 1.

ANOTHER MOVE ON ADOLF SEEN

LONDON, March 30—Another attempt on Hitler's life... Mutiny in the German fleet... New secret Nazi weapon... Ribbentrop deposed... Italy declares war on Russia!

These, according to "Trance Man" Tom Campbell, of London, will be the big news events of the future. Campbell's past predictions have been uncannily accurate.

Campbell "saw" the war, he "saw" the Munich bomb affair, and numerous other events of historical importance. His latest predictions are:

There will be another attempt on the life of Adolf Hitler shortly. It may fail, but the Fuehrer nevertheless will meet a violent death at the hands of his present friends.

Unrest in Nazi Navy

Unrest will speed among German sailors. This will follow, predicts Campbell, Britain's successful anti-U-boat campaign. Many will be shot, and some may even surrender after wrecking their craft.

At sea too, Germany will introduce yet another "secret weapon." This will take a heavy toll of British and neutral shipping for a month or so. But, according to Campbell, all will be well for Britain. For he sees a grey-haired man inventing a successful counter-measure.

The future will show, says Campbell, that Russia will be increasing interest in the Balkans. After warning her, Italy will declare war on Russia. Germany will just watch.

Another attack foreseen is one by Russia on Sweden. Hitler will take advantage of this move to vent his wrath on Ribbentrop, using a trumped-up charge to depose him, according to Campbell.

U. S. Move Against Nazis

In the United States too, London's "Trance Man" sees things. He sees a surprise move by America against the Nazis, following subversive activity by Nazi agents. "It may even end in America participating in the war," says Campbell, "though I am more inclined to believe that she will take economic action rather than send troops to fight in France."

The end of the war will come shortly after the Allies, at their third attempt, have broken through the Siegfried Line. "I see the German defenders stunned by some mysterious weapon controlled by wireless," says Campbell.

"The reverse will do much to damage the morale of the German public who are all for Hitler at the moment."

When Germany begins to feel the pinch of the Allied blockade, and the successes of the Allied forces in the air and on land, Russia's so-called alliance with her will collapse, says Campbell.

Campbell foresees Germany carrying out her much derided scheme of invasion of Britain by troops dropped by parachute. This, however, will prove to be a fiasco and as a result Goering's stock will drop. Goering, says the "Trance Man," will "not die in bed."

Penetration of the Siegfried Line by the Allies and the invasion of England failure will come at the same time, and now not even Nazi propaganda will persuade the German people they have a chance of winning the war.

The "Trance Man," however, gives his version of future events with one reservation.

"People should not place too much faith on my forecasts, I merely say what I see. Time alone will reveal if my visions are correct."

ROSE BUSH TRIMMER CUT

Here's a tip for you spring flower fanciers. Be careful! Russell Lane, 657 East Mound Street, is suffering from painful hand injuries received this week when he was cut by a tool with which he was trimming rose bushes. Several stitches were required to close the wound.

TRY THIS menu some cool spring Saturday evening for supper or dinner. I think it will make a hit. The Hush Puppies may be served with syrup, if you wish, and you can substitute bacon for the ham if you prefer.

Hush Puppies — Ingredients: one cup of cornmeal, one and one-fourth cups buttermilk, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt and pepper, one-half teaspoon baking powder, two tablespoons minced onion. Mix meal, onion, salt and pepper. Dissolve soda in milk and add. Beat well, drop from spoon into hot fat and brown on both sides.

Soft Molasses Cookies — Ingredients: one cup molasses, one cup brown sugar, one cup shortening, one egg, one tablespoon soda dissolved in one-half cup hot water; one tablespoon cinnamon and ginger, one-half teaspoon salt, flour to roll soft—about five cups; or you may use four cups flour and drop dough from end of spoon on greased cookie sheet and bake as drop cakes. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, creaming well. Add beaten egg, then molasses, then soda dissolved in hot water, then flour sifted with spices and salt. Roll out rather thick or drop from spoon. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.)
